WILLIAM CRAIG

ARTHUR PARTRIDGE

Two Winners Share $250 Contest Prize

After seven weeks without a winner, two Times crossword puzzles came up with correct answers to the puzzle this week.

They are Arthur Partridge, 1269 St. Patrick, and William Craig, 400 Boleskine.

As both are regular subscribers to The Times they share the total prize of $250 and get $125 each.

More than 9,000 entries were submitted as the prize money got higher. Biggest stickler for the unsuccessful ones was the word "seeks," which the composer rules was the best word for "a man with criminal tendencies sometimes — to lead an honest life." He says "seems," which many people used, would be better applied to a man who actually was leading a life of crime. Complete answer to the puzzle is on page 29.

Both winners were surprised to learn that they had solved the puzzle.

Noted Pianist Among 20 Dead In San Francisco Air Crash

'GO IT ALONE' PAPERS ADVISE SIR WINSTON

LONDON (AP)—Two leading Conservative newspapers urged Prime Minister Churchill today to "go it alone" in a meeting with Soviet Premier Malenkov if he can't persuade President Eisenhower to join him.

They expressed understanding of American distrust of the Russians, but said Churchill's idea of holding informal East-West talks on world issues at the highest level was the only way to find out what is on the Russian leader's mind.

The Daily Telegraph said it readily conceded President Eisenhower would not lead the same degree of support in the United States for such a meeting as Churchill has in Britain, but added: "The whole point is: Look where you will, nothing except the prime minister's idea has even the faintest chance of getting anywhere."

"Let the impossibility of Eisenhower's participation be accepted. That does not mean necessarily that it would be impossible for him to endorse exploratory talks with Malenkov by our prime minister."

Photos Prove Bestial Torture Of UN Prisoners

White Paper Charges Buchenwald Brutality

By JOHN W. FINNEY
WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States went before the bar of world opinion today with documented charges that the Communists in Korea murdered thousands of Allied and American troops in atrocities rivaling the savagery of Dachau and Buchenwald.

In an 87-page White Paper made public last night, the army told how prisoners were hung up by their hands and set afire, how they were stabbed to death with bamboo spears, how they were disemboweled, emaciated, or bludgeoned.

The report, drawn from the testimony of 216 survivors and buttressed by grisly photographs, listed 29,815 persons as probable atrocity victims—6,113 Americans, 5,509 Allied troops, 17,354 Korean civilians and 839 unidentified. Officials said the total may rise as other reports of Red brutality are investigated.

The Voice of America beamed broadcasts around the globe in an effort to burn the atrocity story into the minds of men everywhere. Congressmen urged the administration to lay the charges before the United Nations as it did in the case of Communist germ-warfare charges.

Believed Dead

Finding of blood-stained underclothing near a bridge and two bloody shirts in a box at a railroad depot, led police to believe that 15-year-old Evelyn Hartley, missing at La Crosse, Wis., is dead. Police believe she was dragged from a home where she was baby sitting last Saturday night.

'Brain-Washing' By Force Hinted At Panmunjom

'Surprise' in Store For Demonstrators

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Friday (UP)—The five-member neutral nations repatriation team may push its way into the seething anti-Communist prisoner compounds today in a final, desperate bid to resume the "counter-brain-washing" of anti-Communist Chinese and Koreans.

Commission Chairman Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya promised newsmen he would give them "a surprise" today.

Informed quarters said the "surprise" may be the entry of the neutral commission inside the compounds.

If the commission attempts the bold step, Redhating Chinese and North Koreans almost certainly will demonstrate wildly against Czech and Polish members of the commission.

Witness recall.

The neutral commission also announced it intends to call back to the Indian camp repatriated Communists to serve as witnesses in an investigation of charges anti-Communists murdered men who decided they wanted to return to their Red homelands.

If these witnesses appear near the touchy North Korean and Chinese anti-Reds trouble will undoubtedly follow. Indian guards may be forced to shoot or use tear gas to maintain order.

Tension was heightened in the camps when a South Korean prisoner crawled out of a barbed-wire enclosed compound under cover of darkness Wednesday to denounce Communism. It was believed this may indicate the Reds are employing terrorist tactics to keep Allied PWs from returning home.

Trans-Pacific Plane 2 Minutes From Field

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Twenty persons, including the brilliant young American pianist William Kapell, perished today when a British Commonwealth Pacific airliner crashed and burned in fogbound hills 25 miles south of San Francisco near the end of a trans-Pacific flight.

The four-engined DC-6, inbound from Australia and Honolulu, struck a mountain-side two minutes before it was to have landed at San Francisco's international airport.

One of 20 victims of the air crash near Redwood City, California, was the brilliant pianist, William Kapell, who is well remembered here for the successful concert he played here in 1948.

New Union Offer May End BCE Strike Threat

Compromise Plan Will Be Revealed Tonight

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new union proposal for settling the threatened strike of electric power workers on the lower British Columbia mainland and Vancouver Island will be presented at a meeting here with company officials tonight.

George Gee, business manager of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW), said today the union will make a "new compromise offer" to B.C. Electric Co. at the meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight.

He declined to divulge terms of the offer, latest development in the dispute involving 600 B.C. Electric Co. workers plus another 400 electricians employed by contractors doing work for B.C.E.

The B.C.E. electricians voted overwhelmingly in favor of strike action following a conciliation board decision to turn down union demands for a 10 per cent hourly wage increase and fringe benefits. Present basic rate is $2.25.

No date had been set for the strike, which would cripple industry on the Lower Mainland and Vancouver Island. The union had stated that if a strike is called, it will maintain essential services to domestic and emergency outlets. Earlier Mr. Gee said that the union would consider setting a strike date if no satisfaction was obtained from tonight's meeting.

Police Handcuff 3 UBC Students After Wild Melee

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three University of British Columbia students were taken to police headquarters in handcuffs Wednesday night after 20 constables broke up a wild melee of 400 youths outside a suburban dance hall.

The three students were arrested after they attempted to turn over a police car, police said.

John MacKinnon, 20, was charged with obstructing and assaulting a police constable and Peter Mitchell, 20, and Robert Gregerich, 20, with obstructing.

The fracas started when students from other faculties "crashed" the annual smoker of the UBC Engineering Undergraduates' Society.

Flin Flon Proposes 11th Province Plan

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—Formation of an 11th province to include northern areas of Manitoba and Saskatchewan along with the Northwest Territories is proposed by the Flin Flon Chamber of Commerce.

The group will propose a resolution to this effect at the annual meeting of the Manitoba Chamber of Commerce in Winnipeg next month.

Women Weaker Sex? 'Phooey' Says Doctor

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Added proof to explode the age-old myth of female weakness was offered.

"Women can lose more blood. Women can stand more shock. They are far better drivers. They can go into a profession and hold their own provided men don't give them an inferiority complex. They can hold down a job, take care of a home and family, and at the same time, guard the supposedly stronger male."

As a finale, Dr. Leaman added: "It is a woman's world if she wants to admit it and claim it. But perhaps she would be unwise to do so."

Dr. Leaman is chairman of the department of medicine at the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania.

TRIUMPH AND TRAGEDY

Russians Deliberately Let Warsaw Poles Die

Encouraged Underground Attack But Denied Aid; Lied to Cover Up

By WINSTON S. CHURCHILL

The Russian summer offensive (in 1944) brought their armies in late July to the river Vistula. All reports indicated that in the very near future Poland would be in Russian hands.

The leaders of the Polish Underground Army, which owed allegiance to the London government, had now to decide when to raise a general insurrection against the Germans, in order to speed the liberation of their country and prevent them fighting a series of bitter defensive actions on Polish territory and particularly in Warsaw itself. The Polish commander, General Bor Komorowski, and his civilian adviser were authorized by the Polish government in London to proclaim a general insurrection whenever they deemed fit. The moment indeed seemed opportune. On July 20 came the news of the plot against Hitler, followed swiftly by the Allied break-out from the Normandy beachhead. About July 22 the Poles intercepted wireless messages from the German Fourth Panzer Army ordering a general withdrawal to the west of the Vistula. The Russians crossed the river on the same day, and their patrols pushed forward in the direction of Warsaw. These seemed little doubt that a general collapse was at hand.

Decides Time Ripe

General Bor therefore decided to stage a major uprising and liberate the city. He had about forty thousand men, with reserves of food and ammunition for seven to ten days' fighting. The sound of Russian guns across the Vistula could now be heard. The Soviet Air Force began bombing the Germans in Warsaw from recently captured airfields near the capital, of which the closest was only twenty minutes' flight away. At the same time a Communist committee of national liberation had been formed in eastern Poland, and the Russians announced that liberated territory would be placed under their control. Soviet broadcasting stations had for a considerable time been urging the Polish population to drop all caution and start a general revolt against the Germans. On July 29, three days before the rising began, the Moscow radio station broadcast an appeal from the Polish Communists to the people of Warsaw, saying that the guns of liberation were now within hearing, and calling upon them as in 1939 to join battle with the Germans, this time for decisive action.

Soviets Expected

On the evening of July 31 the Underground command in Warsaw got news that Soviet tanks had broken into the German defenses east of the city. The German military wireless announced: "Today the Russians started a general attack on Warsaw from the southeast." Russian troops were now at points less than ten miles away. In the capital itself the Polish Underground command ordered a general insurrection at 5 p.m. on the following day. General Bor has himself described what happened:

At exactly five o'clock thousands of windows flashed as they were flung open. From all sides a hail of bullets struck passing Germans, riddling their buildings and their marching formations. In the twinkling of an eye the remaining civilians disappeared from the streets. From the entrances of houses our men streamed out and rushed to the attack. In fifteen minutes an entire city of a million inhabitants was engulfed in the fight. Every kind of traffic ceased. As a big communications centre, where roads from north, south, east and west converged, in the immediate rear of the German front, Warsaw ceased to exist. The battle for the city was on.

Red Radio Silent

The news reached London next day, and we anxiously awaited for more. The Soviet radio was silent and Russian air activity ceased. On August 4 the Germans started to attack from strong-points which they held throughout the city and suburbs. The Polish government in London told us of the agonizing urgency of sending in supplies by air. The insurgents were now opposed by five heavily concentrated German divisions.

Exploding Fireworks Wreck Duncan Store; $2,000 Loss

By JOHN TAYLOR
DUNCAN—Well over $2,000 damage was done to a grocery store belonging to Low Buck here this morning when fireworks on sale in his store suddenly caught light and destroyed most of the interior of the store.

It is not known what ignited the fireworks on show in the window. The fire spread to another batch at the rear of the store, destroying about $500 worth.

People watching the blaze had to take cover when rockets zipped out of the store in all directions on Craig Street where the store is situated. Many people had to duck behind cars to avoid being hit.

Molotov Unseen for Three Weeks

BERLIN (AP)—Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov is strangely absent from the diplomatic scene in Moscow, a Western official said Wednesday night.

The "old Bolshevik's" deputies in the Soviet foreign ministry have been handling all cases involving international protocol since early in October—about three weeks.

The halt in Molotov's public activities has not been explained and Westerners in the Soviet capital are speculating as to the reason.

Diplomatic missions in Moscow usually learn soon when a top Kremlin personality is simply on vacation. This has not yet been established in Molotov's case.

NO LAUREATE HE, BUT—

Hearts of City Folk Treasure Kipling Lore

Dedicated Members of Club Answer Roll Call With Suitable Quotes for 20 Years

By TONY DICKASON

Once monthly, a small group of somewhat dedicated men and women meet in Victoria to examine and appraise the moods, manners and morals of Commonwealth millions as interpreted by the "Poet of Empire," Rudyard Kipling.

Known officially as the Kipling Society, Victoria Branch, the group comprises a membership of 24 persons. They quote Kipling from memory; quote Kipling from his verse; quote Kipling from his books and, when this fails, talk about their favorite poet, Kipling.

Eleven members turned up Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. C. Badger, 317 Cook Street, where gatherings have been held regularly in recent months.

He Was Famous—But Hungry

Secretary since 1946 has been Mrs. Maud Barclay, who as a child in India had the distinctive pleasure of meeting Kipling while she was a tot and he a hungry journalist. "He ate at our place, sometimes three times a week."

The group is widely representative—a beauty parlor operator, a retired professor, wife of a retired Royal Navy captain, a retired baker, a practical nurse, and others.

Of the 11 present, four were men, all of whom smoked pipes. The meeting was held in a comfortable room with numerous pictures on the walls and amid a display of 236 elephants, of mahogany, teak, metal, plastic

Members Listen With Reverence

A jolly relaxed group between readings—which incidentally are done extremely well—all listen with considerable reverence. During readings, the men laid aside their pipes.

They believe, as Kipling said in an address in 1906 to the Royal Academy, that "words become alive, and walk up and down among the hearers." They also believe that "you can't get away from Kipling very long."

Backing up this assumption strongly is the fact he had written more than 40 books and better than 1,000 pieces of verse, or poetry as Kiplingites prefer to term it, when he died, aged 70, in 1936.

Present head of the Kipling Society in England is Sir Frederick Browning, master of the Queen's household. He is perhaps better known as the husband of novelist Daphne Du Maurier.

The society would like to interest younger people in their movement. As a member pointed out, Kipling wrote for youngsters as well as grown-ups, notably the jungle books.

Kipling, in his "Song of the Cities," also wrote of Victoria: "From East to West the circling word has passed."

"Till West is East beside our landlocked blue."

"From East to West the tested chain holds fast."

8 PULP MILLS MAKE PLANS FOR STRIKE

5c-An-Hour Offer Spurned By Union

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eight British Columbia pulp and paper companies Wednesday night made arrangements for possible closure of nine plants following official rejection of what they said was their final wage offer.

Official word was received by the companies from the Tacoma, Wash., offices of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers (AFL) and the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers (AFL) that a referendum taken at B.C. mills had rejected the firms' five-cent-an-hour offer "by an overwhelming majority."

Basic wage in the industry is $1.50 an hour. A government-supervised strike vote will be taken Saturday to Monday at nine B.C. mills.

An official statement by D. R. Bair, manager of the pulp and paper industrial relations bureau, said:

"It is understood that a majority of employees at some mills voted to accept the five-cent offer. 'In those mills where the forthcoming strike vote favors strike action, it must be expected that a strike will ensue, and preparations for plant close-down are already being made.'"

About 4,500 employees would be affected.

Israel Allocated $26 Million Aid As U.S. Ends Ban

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States has ended a 34 day ban on American aid to Israel and allocated $26,000,000 to the new republic in the troubled Middle East.

President Eisenhower disclosed the move at his press conference Wednesday, saying he was "delighted" to learn Israel had decided to abide by a ruling of a special United Nations commission in Israel's dispute with Syria.

Later, State Secretary Dulles announced the formal lifting of the ban he imposed September 25 after Israel refused to halt work on a Jordan river hydro-electric project, as requested by the UN commission. Syria complained that the project diverted water along the Israeli-Syrian frontier.

The meeting opens with a prayer: "Grant, O Lord, that our readings and discussions bring refreshment to our spirits; that at all times we may be true to Thee, to Her Majesty the Queen, to our country, and be ever ready to help our fellow men."

Each member answers the roll-call with a quote, and thenceforth keep quoting in an indefatigable manner.

REPUBLICAN WASHINGTON today cheered King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece as they began a whirlwind of sightseeing after an overnight stay in the White House. King Paul and his vivacious queen will leave Washington Saturday noon on a month-long tour of the States. At an official banquet Wednesday night the Greek monarch received the U.S. Legion of Merit from President Eisenhower.

End to TCA Monopoly Foreseen By St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent predicted Wednesday night that Canada's economic development will give more scope for competition among airlines and indicated his government will not block such a trend.

He said the government is opposed to the "abuses" of competition where there is insufficient traffic for more than one operator, but added:

"The government does not necessarily intend to guarantee every operator a permanent monopoly in his area."

In a speech to airline executives and aircraft manufacturers, the prime minister discussed an application by Canadian Pacific Airlines to run a cross-country air cargo service between Montreal and Vancouver. Existing government policy has given the government-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines a monopoly in east-west trunk services.

The cabinet this week will hear representations from both CPA and TCA on the issue.

TWO PRINCIPLES

Mr. St. Laurent said the cabinet decision will be based on two principles: what is best for

Round-the-Clock Parley Seeks to End Milk Strike

NEW YORK (UP)—A mediated reported early today that dairy industry and union negotiators "are getting very close together" in their round-the-clock efforts to settle a four-day-old strike that has deprived 12,000,000 persons of fresh milk in the New York metropolitan area.

Dr. Charles Blanford, federal state milk market administrator, emerged at 3 a.m. from the smoke-filled conference room where negotiators had been meeting continuously since 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

"The two sides are getting very close together," he said. "I'm confident that a complete resolution of their differences will be achieved."

Blanford's statement was the most optimistic to come out of the strike negotiations since 13,000 dairy plant workers and deliverymen went on strike last Sunday. He refused to elaborate, and returned immediately to the conference room.

New Trieste Formula Expected to End Crisis

Italy and Yugoslavia Reported Studying Allied Plan Presented By France's Bidault

PARIS (UP)—The western Big Three powers believe they now have the formula to settle the angry dispute over Trieste. Both Italy and Yugoslavia are giving it serious consideration.

In brief, the plan would permit Yugoslavia to retain zone B of the free territory while Italy would keep zone A including the city of Trieste. Yugoslavia would be given special guarantees and privileges in the port. In addition, the frontiers of zones A and B would be modified along ancestral population lines.

French foreign minister Georges Bidault is being used by the United States and Britain as the "honest broker" who will bring Italy and Yugoslavia close enough together to permit the holding of a five-power conference on the Trieste issue.

Wednesday he spoke for hours with Yugoslavia's foreign minister Koca Popovic and today he lunched with Italian Premier and foreign minister Giuseppe Pella.

The Trieste issue boiled over as result of the Oct. 8 Anglo-American decision to withdraw their troops from zone A and the city of Trieste and to turn them over to Italy.

Yugoslavia's President Tito warned that his troops would stop any Italian entry into the zone, but he also proposed a conference among the powers involved.

PROTECT MINORITY

The West now proposes handing the port over to Italian administration but with the prior agreement that it will be demilitarized, that Yugoslavia, Austria and other nations will have special free port facilities, and that minority rights will be scrupulously protected. Italian minorities in Zone B would get the same protection.

In essence this is the same plan worked out by the United States in late 1949 and put forward by Washington to the Italian and Yugoslav governments. The Yugoslav reaction was favorable.

The Italian government of Premier Alcide de Gasperi, supported by the U.S. embassy in Rome, rejected the idea. Their opposition was based on the 1948 Allies declaration which cold, almost clinical recital of Communist brutality brought home the ugliness of the "little" war in Korea. It showed the almost unbelievable extent to which one human being is capable of offending another.

HUNG BY HANDS

In the case of the "Chinese torture," a surviving American lieutenant told how wounded prisoners were hung up by their hands, set afire, and when dead or only unconscious stabbed in the eyes with sticks.

The army said the "Tajon massacre" will be recorded in history "along with the rape of Nanking, the Warsaw ghetto and other similar mass executions." Communist executioners slaughtered 5,000 to 7,000 inmates of the local jail in cold blood.

In another case, five American airmen were found with their bodies perforated with bamboo spear wounds. Two GI artillermen were found—one dismembered, the other cruelly bayoneted and with his eyes gouged out.

The report said photographs "clearly reveal" that six American soldiers were shot in cold blood in front of a Communist propaganda bulletin telling of U.S. "brutalities."

511 BODIES FOUND

The bodies of 511 Americans were recovered, the report said. Examples of the way they met their death are shown in 29 photographs.

These show emaciated bodies, burned bodies, bodies piled in shallow ditches and scattered over the Korean countryside in various stages of decomposition.

Sen. Lester C. Hunt, a member of the Senate armed services committee, said he hoped the report would be brought "forcibly to the attention of the proper UN committee and then to the UN General Assembly."

"Only by giving this report the greatest possible publicity can we perhaps get Russia to understand that the rest of the world is not going to tolerate such barbaric actions without letting the world know who is responsible," he said.

Sen. Estes Kefauver also called for laying the report before the UN. Sen. George A. Smathers said the evidence shows "the free world faces the cruellest foe in history."

In making the report public, Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens said it was clear evidence of the cold-blooded program of torture and murder carried on by the Communist enemy in Korea. (See also Page 31).

It was the third sea collision near here in the last week, all involving ships of the Union Steamships Ltd., a coastal shipping company.

Lady Cynthia took the nine Dola crew members aboard as their craft sank. The Dola was outbound for Squamish, B.C., 40 miles north of here at the head of Howe Sound, with a string of Pacific Great Eastern railway cars on a barge. The Cynthia was inbound from Britannia Beach.

The tug Blackbird II answered the call and picked up the Dola's tow, left free in the fog.

A week ago, also in fog, the CPR's Princess Elizabeth and Union's Cardena ground together in the First Narrows, entrance to Burrard Inlet. Earlier Wednesday, the Ss. Catala, also owned by Union, rammed a dredge at almost the same spot in First Narrows.

SHIFT IN TIME

Dola's quartermaster, Henning Larsen, said he saw the Cynthia crawl out of the fog toward him and he shouted to Capt. Vic Montgomery. They spun the wheel, taking the Cynthia's bow in a glancing gash into the Dola's starboard side.

Crew members said the action averted the Dola's boiler room from the impact and prevented an explosion of the tug's boilers.

The Cynthia brought the Dola's crew here.

Sailor's Hi-Jinks Bring 30-Day Term

HONOLULU (AP)—Douglas Gibson, 19, of Toronto, was sentenced Wednesday to 30 days in jail for reckless driving.

Judge Griffith White also fined the sailor from the Canadian destroyer Crusader $20 for driving without a license.

Gibson was arrested Monday night after a wild chase. Police said he drove a stolen car 75 miles an hour with a flat tire and circled a military air field five times.

The March on Ottawa

NOW THAT THE DUST AND glitter have settled after the recent Social Credit convention in Vancouver the real purposes of the party emerges sharply. It is nothing less than the capture of the Canadian Government and the inauguration of a new state-controlled economic system invented by the late Major Douglas, with all the well-known gimmicks of price-fixing, national dividends for everybody and crude inflation.

The speeches of such leaders as Premier Bennett, of British Columbia, and Premier Manning, of Alberta, leave no doubt on that score. The march on Ottawa collapsed for the moment at the national election of August last but it has not been abandoned and will be resumed with a temporary detour through New Brunswick, where Social Credit intends to win the next provincial election.

In the federal election Mr. Bennett said that Social Credit would come to power nationally in "two bites"—that is to say at the next national election. Perhaps the schedule has now been extended to three bites.

In any case, Social Credit in British Columbia is revealed as an appendage of a nation-wide movement, centred not in Victoria, but in the original stronghold of Edmonton. Our British Columbia politicians, who should be minding their own business—and have plenty of business to mind—are enmeshed in this wider strategy. They are not satisfied to give this province good government under the existing political and economic system. They are dedicated to the revolution of Social Credit.

This, so far as Mr. Bennett is concerned, may cause some surprise among those who remembered him as a life-long Conservative and expected him to steer clear of Social Credit, "except perhaps for ceremonial purposes. But at the recent convention he went overboard, publicly embracing the Alberta government, proudly enlisting in Mr. Manning's crusade and predicting its consummation in the world's first Social Credit Society. He has swallowed the doctrines of Major Douglas and Mr. Solon Low hook, line and sinker. He has accepted the theory, outlined by Mr. Noel Murphy, president of the Social Credit League of British Columbia, that "you can have your cake and eat it too."

That is a perfect description of Social Credit and Mr. Murphy is to be thanked for explaining an obvious fallacy so candidly. But the electors of Victoria, who must shortly pronounce upon the candidature of Mr. Gunderson, should remember that they must also pronounce upon the cake theory, upon a national movement of massive monetary inflation, upon a British Columbia Government which has made itself an instrument of these larger purposes.

The Fourth Republic

CONCERNING THE FRENCH Assembly, which has begun what may prove to be a decisive session, The London Economist asks publicly the question which all Europe has been asking privately for months: "Can the present type of government really survive? If it does, can it ever put the stumbling French economy on its feet again? And if not, what will succeed the Fourth Republic, and with what consequences to the fabric of Europe?"

The question before France and Europe is not whether the Laniel Government can survive (which, as in the case of all recent French governments, is doubtful) but whether the Fourth Republic can survive in its present constitutional form.

One of France's leading statesmen, M. Mendes-France, says that already his country has returned to the year 1788, when the Revolution was on the point of eruption. If that is only a familiar French exercise in phrase-making there can be no doubt about the organic sickness of France.

Behind it lies a hundred and seventy years of trouble, four revolutions, two Napoleons and a German occupation—enough to destroy any people lacking the inner toughness of the French. But apart from the inner schisms of the French mind and soul, apart also from an unworkable constitution and a splintered party system, the basic economic problems of the nation have never been seriously approached, much less solved.

The Duke's Knees

THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, ALready popular as "a man's man," undoubtedly endeared himself to millions of drivers the other day when he asked British automotive designers why the knob controlling car windows had to be placed in such a position that it invariably bumped the knee.

For all their skill, for all their ability to design cars of hyperthyroid horsepower, the automotive engineers have never addressed themselves properly to the problem raised by the Duke. Should they, as a result of this regal "command," be able to devise a plan that will enable the knobby knee to wander unfettered, motorists will rise up and call His Highness blessed.

'Keeping Alive, Being Responsive, Always Reaching...'

From an address by Roderick Haig-Brown, delivered at the annual presentation of scholarships at Victoria College.

UNIVERSITIES are traditionally the meeting place of minds. Any man or woman should be able to pass through one without attending a single lecture—though I hope no one here will try it—and come out a better and more useful person. University life has often been considered remote from the world, unpractical, unrealistic. Yet universities have always been guardians of the world's knowledge in dark times, and a major factor in the enlightenment of bright times.

It might better be said that university life comes close to being as valuable and practical as any that man has yet worked out for himself.

In North America today about 10 per cent of the population receives some university training, and about 4 per cent complete four or more years of it. These are very high figures, far higher, I believe than those of any other nations in history; yet they still represent a select and highly privileged minority.

And it would be a bold man who would venture to say what proportion of this group leaves the universities as nothing more than trained technicians, and what proportion actually carries out into the world something of the broadly humane spirit that universities stand for.

I find myself wondering sometimes whether this is a dark age, in which universities must close in upon themselves to protect knowledge and understanding from debasement by false and inferior values, or whether it is a bright age, in which they can hope to reach out with knowledge and understanding, to improve the second-rate and replace false things with true ones.

BRIGHT AGE

In my optimistic moments—and they are with me most of the time—I believe it is a bright age, but constantly and gravely and rather attractively threatened by darkness. It is the age of mass production, mass information, mass entertainment; the age of expedient things, material things, of smoothly packaged things—the age of second-rate things passing as first-rate things. In consumer's goods, this is fine. The things can be worn out and cheaply discarded, because they can be almost as cheaply replaced.

But it is also the age of mass education, and a lot of people would very much like it to be the age of mass thinking and mass behavior as well. It would be so convenient and so efficient and so very comfortable that way.

My optimistic moments about all this

LOOSE ENDS

The World of the Carr Sisters

WHEN Miss Alice Carr died a few days ago a good many men in Victoria felt their own age for the first time and realized that they had lived in two ages, separated by a few years on the calendar, by centuries of change.

For Miss Carr and her more famous artist sister, Emily, came out of the Victorian age—of Victorian both in its local and in its historic sense. And each of them imprinted her spirit on more people than she remembered.

Emily, bursting out of Victorianism with titanic energy of brush and pen, was a pioneer of a new Canadian age in painting and literature.

Alice remained a Victorian to the end, and long after her era had passed, maintained its virtues, without which we are the poorer. The pupils of her queer little one-room school in the woods still carry in their own lives some remains of the useful lessons learned there.

IN the year of 1908—several hundred centuries ago, in the measurement of subsequent events—the boys and girls who answered the morning clang of Alice's school bell were entering a world which would die exactly six years hence. But of course they didn't know that and would not understand it until long afterwards. They were living in the last pale sunset of the Victorian peace. All of us were far too young to appreciate it.

To the first-primer-pupil of those times it did not appear to be a good world or a bad. It was the world of childhood where everything is taken for granted. We saw nothing remarkable, for example, in the fact that the old Carr house stood at the edge of town, the schoolhouse in a jungle and, just beyond it, stretched the undiscovered, magical country of Beacon Hill Park.

ALICE was just a school teacher who occasionally rapped our knuckles with a round, black ruler, kept a pair of white doves flying about the single classroom and fed the wild birds out of her hands.

Emily was a vague and restless figure, moving about with her paints and easel, and apparently was an indifferent and blundering artist, who could never equal the neat floral designs that Alice painted in our drawing books.

It was no wonder that we in our ignorance failed to understand a great and original artist when the adult world ignored her, almost to the day of her death.

WE WERE in the presence of mysteries too large for a child to suspect—the mystery of Emily, her paints and poverty, the mystery of Alice, who fought and subdued life on her own terms and alone, the greater mystery of an age and a world dying, if we could only see it, before our eyes. Within six years some of the older boys in that Dickensian school would die also, far away on alien fields, for reasons that seemed good to them.

The contrary lives of the two Carr sisters represented in miniature the great process of our times, even if they could not begin to grasp it. In Emily burned the secret flame of revolution, which she interpreted in a revolutionary art now almost orthodox in the larger artistic revolution following her. In Alice the old world stood dauntless to the end.

WELL, I dare say we learned something from the Carrs, in spite of ourselves, though I have forgotten exactly what it was. We learned to read and write, to do simple sums in arithmetic. But that was the lesser part of it. In the company of Alice, with her birds, flowers and unspoiled native woods we entered unknowingly the world of nature, and from then on, though scattered in many distant places and forgotten in strange cities, then unbuilt, we would never lose that memory.

SOME little spark of Emily's genius, some hard speck of flint from Alice's Victorian granite has remained with us after nearly 50 years. If none of us have achieved the artist's fame or the teacher's virtue, perhaps their trouble with us was not quite wasted. We made nothing of the artist's painting, and little of the teacher's lessons, but we have our memories of them both and of a world now dead and buried.

Back in Harness

THE British Parliament reassembles with two points of political uncertainty removed. First, Sir Winston Churchill is able and willing to carry on with the prime ministership for the time being; he seems, indeed, to be back in health to where he was before his summer illness. Secondly, the Government will enter next month on the business of a new Parliamentary session without any intention so far as its present plans go of interrupting the business by a general election within the next 12 months.

Sir Winston's health is to be judged by his 50-minute speech at Margate on October 10, which closed the annual Conservative Party conference. This had been deliberately chosen as the test of fitness he must pass before Parliament reassembled and he returned to full duty.

One of the most experienced of the country's political observers has accurately summed up the result in these words: "All in all, he came wonderfully through his ordeal—the ordeal of a vast audience, of cruel lights, of a heated hall, and a long and complicated speech." It was also a very good speech. It showed that Sir Winston retains his outstanding mental vigor and breadth of grasp in public affairs.

MODEST PLAN

On foreign policy, Sir Winston reaffirmed his famous proposal of last May for "big-four" talks. He called it a "humble, modest plan," and in effect criticized the Opposition's recent attitude by emphasizing that he had "held out no glittering or exciting hopes about Russia." But he still thought that informal talks might do good and could not easily do much harm. The plan, Sir Winston claimed, was not dead.

Sir Winston may be accused of some inconsistency in at once asking people not to put exaggerated hopes in big-four talks and at the same time himself referring again to his idea of a Locarno-type pact with Russia. But he also spoke realistically on the need for a rearmament Germany in EDC or, if France rejected that, associated in some other way with NATO. He gave an important assurance that British forces would be maintained in Europe.

Sir Winston has often shown how deeply he feels the importance of British policy in these matters. That, as again his speech made plain, is the reason why he sticks to the prime ministership despite the many personal influences pressing him to retire. It is, also, probably, the main reason why he has so far decided against an early general election.

In truth the decision has been by no means so simple. Many Conservatives not lacking in patriotism have been privately urging an early election. They include some ministers and other leading spirits in the party. The strength of their arguments is shown, indeed, by the measure of compromise between Bevanites and anti-Bevanites achieved at the recent Labor Party conference. This was undoubtedly due in part to the Labor leaders' belief that they had to be ready for an election quite soon—not, it had by now seemed probable, this fall, but perhaps very early next year.

WARMLY RECEIVED

One factor in all these calculations remains uncertain—Mr. Eden's health. He has returned to duty as Foreign Secretary and his short, general speech at the Conservative Party conference was very warmly received. There is no doubt that he will be Sir Winston's successor if his health is good enough. But close observers are doubtful whether he has really made sufficient recovery to stand up for long to the strains of office.

On this there is, indeed, more doubt about Mr. Eden than about Sir Winston: at the same time, it must be recognized that Sir Winston's own capacity to continue the burdens of the prime ministership is likely to be measured in months rather than in even two or three years. There are no doubt among the most important considerations influencing the Government to make the best of things and carry on for the present.

Two Views of the Same Animal

As Our Readers See It

CHRISTIANITY FIRST

In a recent article on the leader page of your paper, the United Nations was held up as being "the only hope" for the world today.

Were such a statement found in some heathen or Godless country, one might perhaps pass it by, but to find it in an up-to-date newspaper, in a supposedly Christian community, is little short of disastrous.

Have we forgotten God entirely? There was a time when we went to Him in all times of trouble, and relied upon Him for help, and He never failed us.

The only possible way to defeat communism is to practice Christianity. All the talking and wrangling of the United Nations will never achieve peace, but God can bring it to us, because He is the Author of it; but we must obey Him.

MILK IN STORES

Has this community ever seen such a display of poor public relations as is now being put on by the milk distributors in this area? Decontrol of milk prices above the producer level has not brought any reduction in the store prices of fluid milk because, as stated in the press, distributors will not sell to the stores at a price that will permit such a reduction. In the chain stores in Vancouver milk is selling at two cents per quart less than the home-delivered price.

Much of the market for fluid milk probably has gone to the use of powdered varieties since Victoria prices of milk have been very high for so long a time, but have the drowsy distributors never heard of introducing more efficient methods of delivery, for instance, to reduce costs, and of increasing the volume of sales by lowering prices? Equally to be developed by a reduction in store prices is the sale of cream and cereal qualities of milk, as well as table and whipping cream.

It would be interesting to have an expression of opinion on this subject. Apparently nothing but a loud protest will awaken local distributors to their responsibility as a public utility. One wonders, too, if this is not a case for the application of the federal Anti-Combiner Act.

INTERNATIONAL PENAL CODE

The Times of Oct. 3 announced that the pope is asking for an international penal code to cover, among many other evil things, all major crimes! He must have had in mind the awful mental and physical tortures to which the totalitarian governments and the dictatorial rulers of East and West are subjecting their helpless victims!

Such a code would be very desirable but there should be no discrimination between the "religious" and the "anti-religious" culprits, be they of the West or of the East! Unfortunately the West cannot justify her "holier-than-thou" attitude toward the East without hearing from them the just remark that "the pot calls the kettle black!"

Rationalism raises its voice against the display of brutal intolerance from whatever source the news is reported, but first and foremost does it point the accusing finger at those guilty of un-Christianlike Christianity as witnessed today in Spain and in some of the South American states! Rationalists' fatal mistake however is that they base their opinion upon the human reasoning that: "therefore Christianity is not worth having!"

No one having received some counterfeit dollar bills will therefore lose faith in the genuine and standard dollar bill. If something is worth imitating that something must be good. In like manner Christianity should be judged not by some of its poor examples and counterfeits but by the Lord Jesus Christ Himself, for true Christianity is Christ.

MILK AND LEGISLATION

Mr. Frank Partridge's clear explanation of Victoria's milk situation also shows up Premier Bennett's flagrant disregard of the interests of the poor. The majority of us in snobbish Victoria who get enough milk, can be safely trusted not to raise a public fuss over a few cents more or less in the price of milk.

While some of our government smarties might find it difficult to realize the full extent of the hardship imposed on harassed mothers of large, poverty-stricken families by the infernally high milk price, no such excuse can be urged for our social welfare enthusiasts. All circumstances carefully considered, their political silence on this subject is sinister, in view of the fact that at all costs, food prices must be kept high in order to stir people to the point of exasperation where they will willingly accept "a change" from the democratic polity.

Premier Bennett had an opportunity to lower milk prices in Victoria (cash and carry, etc.) He refused.

If, as the press avers, federal anti-combine laws are being violated in Victoria in regard to milk, it is the duty of social welfare authorities to send an appeal to Ottawa to have this matter mended.

It is their job to attempt to lighten this burden pressing heavily on the poor.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"YOUR FOOT IS ASLEEP, DEAR. THAT'S WHY IT FEELS LIKE GINGER ALE."

Way Out of the Woods

HERE we are again at the time of the year when Nature gets ready for its winter sleep, the city ninnyrots take to the woods and the sound of the hunter is heard in the hills. It is also the time of the year when the news columns tell their stories of someone either shot in mistake for a deer or someone else being lost in the woods and having to be searched for by posse.

It's too bad that something can't be done to put an end to such casualties, which recur with tragic regularity every time autumn comes around. But it is comforting to know that efforts to avert such accidents are being carried out with unceasing vigor, not only by the authorities but by groups and agencies particularly interested in sport, the woodsman's art, and game preservation.

Nancy

FLUORESCENT FOIL. I don't know whether it has been adopted or if it has proved effective, but the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests has been experimenting with fluorescent red and orange as a replacement for the traditional red clothing worn by hunters. It is claimed that these fluorescent colors are four times as bright as ordinary red and that they are most vivid in the late evening or early morning hours when most hunting is done.

But why not go one better? Why not insist on every neophyte ninnyrod wearing flashing lights in orange and red? Even at that, I wouldn't be surprised if some idiot carrying a gun didn't mistake the flashes for the glow of a deer's eye—or misread the signal to mean "shoot!" instead of "stop!"

For it amounts to this, that no matter what precautions are taken there will always be some moron who will disregard them or decide to take a chance—just as there are always those half-wit motorists who seem to consider it a reflection on their driving ability to exercise a little care or courtesy towards the other fellow.

MILLIONS LOST

As to the campers and hunters who get lost in the woods they are evidently just as much of a problem as trigger-happy hunters, or so statistics, for example, from the U.S. Forest Service suggest. A recent booklet issued by that department says millions of campers and hunters were lost in the woods last year—which is a lot of lost! So much so that the U.S. authorities have issued a bulletin of rules for potential strayers.

The first rule, it claims, is "to stop, sit down and try and figure out where you came from." Judging by some of the people who get lost this should have been accompanied by a footnote explaining that this didn't mean the stray had to figure out whether he was born in Toledo or Timbuctoo, or whether his Mom found him under a gooseberry bush. And, of course, if the stray knew where he had strayed from he probably wouldn't find himself lost.

According to the author of the bulletin, the most important thing of all is to remember not to panic. "For panic is a more serious danger than lack of food, water or clothing." That may be, but if you read that rule when you were lost in the B.C. bush you might wonder if it had been drawn up by a Freudian or Deukhobor, especially if the local brand of mosquitoes were up to scratch.

Taking it all in all, I can't help thinking that the best advice to some of the people who go off into the woods with guns—or without—might well be couched in the terms that Punch gave to those about to get married—"Don't."

FROM TAIPEI, FORMOSA

By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Facts on Formosa

THE professional enthusiasts for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his government, like Sen. William Knowland and William C. Bullitt, have grossly oversold Formosa in the United States. Where one would like to praise it, it is necessary to begin by stripping away the complicated false fronts that have been erected to conceal Formosan realities.

Joseph

First of all, this government here in Formosa is not an unblemished free democracy. The people here have considerably more voice than they ever did on the Chinese mainland, and vastly more attention is paid to popular opinion and to the people's welfare. But this island still teems with an extraordinary variety of secret police agencies.

Probably the most influential man after Chiang Kai-shek himself is the generalissimo's son, Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo, who is essentially the secret police chief. And at least as long as the Communist threat exists, the Formosa government will continue, and continue of necessity, to be predominantly a police regime.

Second, the generalissimo's efforts and American military aid have not created a powerful military force which can be hurled onto the mainland whenever the American government so desires.

What has been accomplished with the generalissimo's army is in most ways admirable, but it has not produced a decisive threat on the Chinese Communist flank. The generalissimo himself has told the American authorities that he cannot return to the mainland until he has far more than doubled his present force, which is physically impossible. But even if the force requirements are not inflated in this manner, American and Chinese planning and preparation have got to be radically adjusted before the Communist flank is genuinely threatened from Formosa.

Third, the generalissimo's government is not supported by 200,000 or 300,000 or 500,000 anti-Communist guerrillas on the Chinese mainland.

The Chinese Nationalists have done their best to sustain a guerrilla movement with lavish American aid. The agency of American aid, "Western Enterprises, Incorporated," must surely be the most uncovered covert organization in the world, with its own PX commissary, two social clubs, and a housing development locally known as "Spook Centre."

But the Communist police have largely defeated the best efforts that could be made here. There are not more than a few thousand active guerrillas on the mainland today. And even the coastal pinprick raiders that are mislabeled guerrillas here in Formosa are now being frustrated by stronger Communist coastal defenses.

The beginning of good sense about Formosa is the realization that this is not an ideal democracy with a mighty army and a powerful resistance movement waiting to welcome the army on the mainland. With the false fronts out of the way, you can then form a judgment of Formosa by the only sensible standard—the standard of where this show started and how far it has come to date.

This island, after all, was the scene of one of the ugliest episodes in the carnival of Chinese Nationalist misrule that preceded the Chinese Communist triumph. Here, in 1947, after the most shameless pillage of the provincial treasury, Gov. Chen Yi treacherously massacred something like 300 leading Formosans whom he had cordially invited to outline their grievances to him. (The generalissimo none the less gave Chen Yi an order—provincial—governorship—in China proper, and then, rather happily, had to cut off Chen Yi's head because he was discovered to have sold out to the Communists.)

From such beginnings, the generalissimo and old Chen Cheng and the others have formed a government that is energetic, honest, and distinctly forward looking in its dealings with the Formosans. They have built an army that has strictly limited capabilities as yet, but an army that is a real fighting force, with almost none of the weaknesses of the old Nationalist armies on the mainland.

They have created a state that is an important asset for the free world, and can become a much greater asset if the United States ever takes the trouble for formulating a serious Far Eastern policy. Surely these accomplishments are creditable enough, and do not require large-scale faking to be made interesting.

IN HOLLYWOOD

By VERNON SCOTT

Durante's Three Women

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Jimmy Durante blushed self-consciously today and agreed to discuss the three women in his life—Helen Traubel, Margaret Truman and Mrs. Calabash.

The comedian, relaxing in his Beverly Hills home, grinned sheepishly and admitted he was hard put to choose a favorite.

"They're all real ladies," the long-nosed comic said, "and I love 'em more than I could hope to say. I don't know if the feelin's mutual, but I'm hopin' for the best."

The grin disappeared from Durante's face when he was pressed to reveal the identity of Mrs. Calabash—the woman to whom he faithfully bids goodnight on his radio and TV shows.

"It kinda makes me sore," he said "when people think my saying goodnight to Mrs. Calabash is a gag. It's a very serious thing, and I can't tell anyone who she is."

"But she's a real person. It's an old personal relationship that goes back many, many years. Back to the old days in New York—and she's very close to my heart."

"I don't know where she is now," Durante said sadly, "but wherever she is she knows I'm thinkin' about her, and that I say goodnight every time I'm on the air. She knows." The nearly bald little man wrinkled his face and croaked his famous chuckle.

"Now with Miss Traubel and Margaret Truman, it's different," he said. "We've had lotsa laughs together. I didn't know either of 'em before they came on my show—but right from the first they hit television like it was made for 'em."

"It was me that first talked to Helen about doing a night club act—I'd love to have done a double with her, but it just couldn't work out that way. She'll be back on my comedy hour show on Dec. 6."

"And Margaret Truman—she's a very charmin' person—will be back on the show, too. I'd like to have her father make it a sort of dignified appearance, just for a chat."

Asked where he'd like to go on dates with the three women in his life, the comedian rubbed his nose thoughtfully for a few seconds before answering.

"I'd like to go dancin' with Miss Truman, and I'd like to take Miss Traubel to a baseball game."

"And with Mrs. Calabash—I think we'd just sit in a quiet corner someplace and listen to soft music."

Objective is to raise funds for the Jaycee immigration committee loan fund to help new Canadians establish themselves here.

PORT ALBERNI—City council has accepted as a gift from MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. the old "Two Spot," 45-ton logging locomotive that was brought here in 1912.

First "loco" to haul logs in the district, it will be "enshrined" on a platform at Fourth Avenue and Argyle Street.

COURTENAY—Adults are not alone with their parking problems.

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Winnipeg Approves Spending $4.6 Million on Schools, Bridge

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg citizens Wednesday voted for nine new members to both council and school board and approved two money bills calling for expenditure of $4,600,000 in a quiet civic election that brought only 34.4 per cent of the electorate to the polls.

They defeated a proposed city participation in a low-rental housing scheme.

Under the city's proportional representation system, four aldermen and five school trustees had been elected when counting ended for the night.

Elected were: Council—Ald. Gordon Chown, Ald. C. E. Simonis and Paul Goodman, all representing the civic election committee, and Ald. Jack Blumberg, CCF; school board—Hugh Parker, Mrs. E. R. Tennant, Campbell, Malcolm, Nan Murphy, all CEC, and Joseph Zuken, Labor Progressive Party.

Ratepayers approved a money bill calling for the expenditure of $3,500,000 on new schools, and another $1,100,000 for a new bridge across the Assiniboine River in the heart of the city.

HONOR CANADIAN STATION—WASHINGTON (AP)—Radio station CFQC, Saskatoon, and TV station WTVJ, Miami, Wednesday were cited by the Radio-Television News Directors Association for "outstanding news operations" in 1953.

It was the first time a Canadian station has won the top radio news award in the association's annual competition, conducted by the radio-television department of the McGill School of Journalism, Northwestern University.

MAINTAIN STABILITY—WINNIPEG (CP)—J. H. Wesson, president of Saskatchewan Pool Elevators, warned the 28th annual meeting of Manitoba Pool Elevators Wednesday farmers must fight to maintain stability gained during the last 30 years.

He said farmers must keep their feet on the ground and expand their organizations only when it is economically sound. There is a limit to how far elevator storage can be safely expanded.

Farmers are seeking a fair price to producer and consumer, not a boom-and-bust system, said Mr. Wesson.

EMPLOYMENT PICTURE—PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Prospects for full employment this winter "are not good," T. J. Conroy, manager of the national employment office, said Wednesday.

"Although opportunities for construction workers will be much better this year, the situation on the whole is not good. It is surprising there are not more vacancies during the mild weather," he said, adding that the situation is seasonal.

NEW AIRPORT RUNWAY

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Tenders for construction of a $500,000 hard-surfaced runway at the Prince Albert airport have been called by the department of transport, F. T. Collins, department secretary, said Wednesday.

Bids for construction of the runway, 5,000 feet long and 200 feet wide with a concrete, surface, and other related work at the airport will be received up to noon, Nov. 30, Mr. Collins said.

Lampont Favors Hospital Sweeps

TORONTO (BUP)—Civic sweepstakes, similar to the "Irish sweep," were urged here today by Mayor Allan Lampont, who estimated they would yield $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 for Toronto hospitals.

"It would only mean transferring our generosity from Irish hospitals to our own," he said.

(There is no legislation on the books permitting lotteries, but a study of the criminal code section of lotteries has been forecast at Ottawa.)

TRIUMPH AND TRAGEDY

A bedraggled group of wounded Polish patriots, apathetic with sorrow, await their fate at hands of Nazis following unsuccessful uprising in Warsaw.

Marshal Stalin to Prime Minister, August 5, 1944.
"I have received your message about Warsaw.

I think that the information which has been communicated to you by the Poles is greatly exaggerated and does not inspire confidence. One could reach that conclusion even from the fact that the Polish emigrants have already claimed for themselves that they all but captured Vilna with a few stray units of the Home Army, and even announced that on the radio. But that of course does not in any way correspond with the facts. The Home Army of the Poles consists of a few detachments which they incorrectly call divisions. They have neither artillery nor aircraft nor tanks. I cannot imagine how such detachments can capture Warsaw, for the defense of which the Germans have produced four tank divisions, among them the Hermann Goering Division."

Meanwhile the battle went on street by street against the German Tiger tanks, and by August 9 the Germans had driven a wedge right across the city through to the Vistula, breaking up the Polish-held districts into isolated sectors. The gallant attempts of the RAF, with Polish, British, and Dominion crews, to fly to the aid of Warsaw from Italian bases were both forlorn and inadequate. Two planes appeared, on the night of August 4, and three four nights later.

The Polish Prime Minister, Mikolajczyk, had been in Moscow since July 30 trying to establish some kind of terms with the Soviet Government, which had recognized the Polish Communist Committee of National Liberation as the future administration of the country. These negotiations were carried on throughout the early days of the Warsaw rising. Messages from General Bor were reaching Mikolajczyk daily, begging for ammunition and anti-tank weapons and for help from the Red Army. Meanwhile the Russians pressed for agreement upon the post-war frontiers of Poland and the setting up of a joint Government. A last fruitless talk took place with Stalin on August 8.

On the night of August 16 Vyshinsky asked the United States Ambassador in Moscow to call, and, explaining that he wished to avoid the possibility of misunderstanding, read out the following astonishing statement:

The Soviet Government cannot of course object to English or American aircraft dropping arms in the region of Warsaw, since this is an American and British affair. But they decidedly object to American or British aircraft, after dropping arms in the region of Warsaw, landing on Soviet territory, since the Soviet Government do not wish to associate themselves either directly or indirectly with the adventure in Warsaw."

Stalin Replies in Softer Terms

On the same day I received the following message couched in softer terms from Stalin:

Marshal Stalin to Prime Minister, August 16, 1944.

"After the conversation with M. Mikolajczyk I gave orders that the command of the Red Army should drop arms intensively in the Warsaw sector. A parachutist liaison officer was also dropped, who, according to the reports of the command, did not reach his objective as he was killed by the Germans."

"Further, having familiarized myself more closely with the Warsaw affair, I am convinced that the Warsaw action represents a reckless and terrible adventure which is costing the population large sacrifices. This would not have been if the Soviet command had been informed before the beginning of the Warsaw action and if the Poles had maintained contact with it."

"In the situation which has arisen the Soviet command has come to the conclusion that it must disassociate itself from the Warsaw adventure, as it cannot take either direct or indirect responsibility for the Warsaw action."

According to Mikolajczyk's account, the first paragraph of this telegram is quite untrue. Two officers arrived safely in Warsaw and were received by the Polish command. A Soviet colonel had also been there for some days, and sent messages to Moscow via London urging support for the insurgents."

Two days later (the President and I) sent the following joint appeal, which the President had drafted:

Prime Minister (Italy) and President Roosevelt to Marshal Stalin, August 20, 1944.

"We are thinking of world opinion if the anti-Nazis in Warsaw are in effect abandoned. We believe that all three of us should do the utmost to save as many of the patriots there as possible. We hope that you will drop immediate supplies and munitions to the patriot Poles in Warsaw, or will you agree to help our planes in doing it very quickly? We hope you will approve. The time element is of extreme importance."

This was the reply we got: Marshal Stalin to Prime Minister and President Roosevelt, August 22, 1944.

"I have received the message from you and Mr. Roosevelt about Warsaw. I wish to express my opinions. "Sooner or later the truth about the group of criminals who have embarked on the Warsaw adventure in order to seize power will become known to everybody. These people have exploited the good faith of the inhabitants of Warsaw, throwing many almost unarmed people against the German guns, tanks, and aircraft. A situation has arisen which each new day serves, not the Poles for the liberation of Warsaw, but the Hitlerites who are inhumanly shooting down the inhabitants of Warsaw."

"From the military point of view, the situation which has arisen, by increasingly directing the attention of the Germans to Warsaw, is just as unprofitable for the Red Army as for the Poles. Meanwhile the Soviet troops, which have recently encountered new and notable efforts by the Germans to go over to the counter-attack, are doing everything possible to smash these counter-attacks of the Hitlerites and to go over to a new wide-scale attack in the region of Warsaw. There can be no doubt that the Red Army is not sparing its efforts to break the Germans round Warsaw and to free Warsaw for the Poles. That will be the best and most effective help for the Poles who are anti-Nazis."

Climax Nears in Stricken City

Meanwhile the agony of Warsaw reached its height.

The battle also raged literally underground. The only means of communication between the different sectors held by the Poles lay through the sewers. The Germans threw hand grenades and gas bombs down the manholes. Battles developed in pitch-darkness between men waist-deep in excrement, fighting hand to hand at times with or drowning their opponents in the slime. Above ground German artillery and fighters set alight large areas of the city.

Prime Minister to President Roosevelt, August 25, 1944.

"As Stalin's reply evades the definite questions asked and adds nothing to our knowledge, I propose a reply on the following lines:

"We earnestly desire to send U.S. aircraft from England. Is there any reason why the refuelling ground assigned to us behind the Russian lines should not be used by them to land without inquiry as to their activities on the way? In this way your Government would preserve the principle of dissociation from this particular episode. . . . Our sympathies are aroused for these 'almost unarmed people' whose special faith has led them to attack German tanks, guns, and planes, but we are not concerned to form a judgment about the persons who incited the rising, which was certainly called for repeatedly by Moscow Radio. We cannot think that Hitler's atrocities will end with their resistance, but rather that that is the moment when they will probably begin with full ferocity. The Warsaw massacre will certainly be a matter fraught with trouble for us when we all meet at the end of the war. We therefore propose to send the aircraft unless you directly forbid it."

In the event of his failing to reply to this my feeling is that we ought to send the planes and see what happens. . . .

President Roosevelt to Prime Minister, August 26, 1944.
"I do not consider it would prove advantageous to the long-range general war prospect for me to join with you in the proposed message to Stalin, but I have no objection to your sending such a message if you consider it advisable to do so. In arriving at this conclusion I have taken into consideration Uncle J's present attitude towards the relief of the Underground forces in Warsaw, as indicated in his message to you and to me, his definite refusal to allow the use by us of Russian airfields for that purpose, and the current American conversations on the subject of the subsequent use of other Russian bases."

I had hoped the Americans would support us in drastic action. On September 1 I received the Polish Premier Mikolajczyk, on his return from Moscow. I had little comfort to offer. He told me that he was prepared to propose a political settlement with the Lublin Committee, offering them fourteen seats in a combined Government. These proposals were debated under fire by the representatives of the Polish Underground in Warsaw itself. The suggestion was accepted unanimously. Most of those who took part in these decisions were tried a year later for "treason" before a Soviet court in Moscow.

Anger Universal

When the cabinet met on the night of September 4 I thought the issue so important that though I had a touch of fever I went from my bed to our underground room. We had met together on many unpleasant occasions. I do not remember any occasion when such deep anger was shown by all our members. Tory, Labor, Liberal, alike. I should have liked to say, "We are sending our aeroplanes to land in your territory, after delivering supplies to Warsaw. If you do not treat them properly all convoys will be stopped from this moment by us." But the reader of these pages in after-years must realize that everyone always has to keep in mind the fortunes of millions of men fighting in a world-wide struggle, and that terrible and even humbling submissions must at times be made to the general aim. I did not therefore propose this drastic step. It might have been effective, because we were dealing with men in the Kremlin who were governed by calculation and not by emotion. They did not mean to let the spirit of Poland rise again at Warsaw. Their plans were based on the Lublin Committee. That was the only Poland they cared about. The cutting off of the convoys at this critical moment in their great advance would perhaps have bulked in their minds as much as considerations of honor, humanity, decent commonplace good faith, usually count with ordinary people.

Shock to Public

Prime Minister to President Roosevelt, September 4 1944.
Following is text of telegram sent to Moscow this evening.

"The war cabinet wish the Soviet Government to know that public opinion in this country is deeply moved by the events in Warsaw and by the terrible sufferings of the Poles there. Whatever the rights and wrongs about the beginnings of the Warsaw rising, the people of Warsaw themselves cannot be held responsible for the decision taken. Our people cannot understand why no material help has been sent from outside to the Poles in Warsaw. The fact that such help could not be sent on account of your government's refusal to allow United States aircraft to land on aerodromes in Russian hands is now becoming publicly known. If on top of all this the Poles in Warsaw should now be overwhelmed by the Germans, as we are told they must be within two or three days, the shock to public opinion here will be incalculable. The war cabinet themselves find it hard to understand your government's refusal to take account of the obligations of the British and American governments to help the Poles in Warsaw. Your government's action in preventing this help being sent seems to us at variance with the spirit of Allied co-operation to which importance both for the present and the future.

"Out of regard for Marshal Stalin and for the Soviet peoples, with whom it is our earnest desire to work in future years, the war cabinet has asked me to make this further appeal to the Soviet Government to give whatever help may be in their power, and above all to provide facilities for United States aircraft to land on your airfields for this purpose."

President Roosevelt to Prime Minister, Sept. 5, 1944:

"I am informed by my Office of Military Intelligence that the fighting Poles have departed from Warsaw and that the Germans are now in full control.

The problem of relief for the Poles has therefore unfortunately been solved by delay and by German action, and there now appears to be nothing we can do to assist them.

I have long been deeply distressed by our inability to give adequate assistance to the heroic defenders of Warsaw, and I hope that we may together still be able to help Poland to be among the victors in this war with the Nazis."

On Sept. 10, after six weeks of Polish torment, the Kremlin appeared to change their tactics. That afternoon shells from the Soviet artillery began to fall upon the eastern outskirts of Warsaw, and Soviet planes appeared again over the city. Polish Communist forces, under Soviet orders, fought their way into the fringe of the capital. From Sept. 14 onwards the Soviet air force dropped supplies; but few of the parachutes opened and many of the containers were smashed and useless. The following day the Russians occupied the Praga suburb but went no farther. They wished to have the non-Communist Poles destroyed to the full, but also to keep alive the idea that they were going to their rescue. Meanwhile, house by house, the Germans proceeded with their liquidation of Polish centres of resistance throughout the city. A fearful fate befell the population. Many were deported by the Germans. General Bor's appeals to the Soviet commander, General Rokossovsky, were unanswered. Famine reigned.

My efforts to get American aid led to one isolated but large-scale operation. On Sept. 18 104 heavy bombers flew over the

Appeal Court Quashes 4-Year Drug Sentence

Judgment Reserved On Three Others

Discrepancies in evidence offered by two RCMP officers regarding the sale of drugs last April in Vancouver, Wednesday led to quashing of charges against one of four men involved.

Paul Ladd, originally sentenced to four years for offering drugs for sale, had his conviction quashed by B.C. Court of Appeal here. Judgment on the three others involved—Gerald Gibson, Gerald Feeny and Michael Burns—has been reserved. They were each sentenced to five years by Judge James McGeer in Vancouver for unlawful sale of drugs.

Investigations leading to the arrests were made by Constable Gerald Howe, RCMP undercover agent in narcotics traffic. He testified he bought three capsules containing drugs in a Hastings Street beer parlor. Shadowing Howe at the time were two other RCMP officers, Lloyd Smith and Donald Kinloch.

Counsel Hugh J. McGivern, New Westminster, pointed out that the two officers had reversed portions of their testimony between the preliminary and the county court hearings. "And their evidence is in complete conflict with that of Howe," he said.

Kinloch had admitted, he said, that "some of the events were a little mixed up."

Canadian to Wed Sweetheart He Left 44 Years Ago

MONTREAL (CP)—Because of the Coronation, childhood sweethearts of 44 years ago will be married in Toronto next week.

Tuesday night Sarah Farmer walked down the gangplank of the liner Empress of Scotland and into the arms of James McLaren, who left Scotland in 1909 and now has a farm at Brantford, Ont.

Their first meeting since childhood was last June. Mr. McLaren, a widower, went to London for the Coronation ceremonies and then decided to go to Scotland to see if the Farmer family was still there.

The first he found was Sarah, still single.

Belmont Students Rush Rock Pile On Playing Field

By BOB PARKER

Belmont High School Reporter "Back to the rock-pile gang!" This has been a common cry at Belmont High School this week.

In preparation for a new playing field, a recently graded area has been attacked by gangs of students, to remove rocks and boulders from the area.

On Monday a tractor and dump trailer were on hand to aid the work.

After all the major rocks and stones are removed, the ground will be covered with topsoil and then seeded with grass.

On Wednesday, the Grade 10 class held a toffee apple sale.

Dial Own LD Calls Soon, Says Bell Head

TORONTO (BUP)—Telephone users will soon be dialing their own long distance calls regardless of provincial or international boundaries, Thomas W. Eadie, president of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada said today.

"We are working towards the day when your operator—or you—will be dialing direct to telephones in practically ever exchange in Canada and the United States. I'll even prophesy that the day is not too distant when you'll be dialing your own calls from Bay Street to Threadneedle Street in old London."

Eadie told the Empire Club here.

Turkey Shoot to Aid Cadets By New Target

Newest addition to cadet units of the army here—a unit sponsored by the Independent Order of Foresters—has come up with a unique idea to raise funds for the operations of the younger generation in khaki.

Lieut. Cy Burley, chief instructor, reported Wednesday that a turkey shoot of a "special design" has been invented to raise dollars for the new-born unit.

The shoot is scheduled for Nov. 27 at the Work Point Barracks indoor ranges.

"Behind each target will be a facsimile of the target sliced 20 ways in pie-shape fashion. 'The cut' with the most number of holes will win the person who purchased that section a 12-pound turkey," Lieut. Burley said.

Cadets will be shooting on Nov. 27 and parents or guardians will shoot the following night, with the same targets behind if sales permit.

The IOF cadet corps now boasts over 40 members, but the hope is that "we'll have at least 150 by next summer."

The turkey shoot was arranged at a meeting held this week by F. Fotheringham and Ted Harrison of the IOF; Dick Bosence, Johnny Blair and Lieut. Burley of the corps, and Lieut. F. K. Anderson, representing 119 Battery, RCA, of the active army. This battery is backing the formation and operation of the IOF unit.

Liberal and PC Win Saskatchewan Seats

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan legislature got its only Progressive Conservative member and the Liberals retained their Rosthern stronghold in two provincial by-elections Wednesday.

Robert Kohaly, 32-year-old Progressive Conservative lawyer, also backed by the Liberals, won the Souris-Estevan seat in a straight contest with William Schlemmer, CCF, while Samuel Carr took Rosthern in a three-way battle with CCF and Social Credit opposition.

The results left this standing in the 53-seat house: CCF—42; Liberals 10; Progressive Conservatives one.

Returns from 84 of 94 polls in Souris-Estevan late Wednesday night showed Mr. Kohaly with 4,344 to 3,278 for Mr. Schlemmer.

In Rosthern, with one poll unreported out of 51, Mr. Carr had 2,320 votes to 1,778 for John Thiessen, CCF, and 1,508 for Social Credit Martin Kellin.

Both winners led from the

DOUGLAS HECKLED

Police Called Eight Times to CCF Meeting

REGINA (CP)—Premier Douglas Wednesday night denied that he had been involved in a tumultuous CCF meeting in Estevan Tuesday night.

Mr. Douglas said that at no time did he leave the platform to take after a heckler, as reported in a dispatch Wednesday by the Regina Leader-Post. The newspaper's story, carried by the Canadian Press, said the premier jumped from the platform to pursue a heckler who interrupted his address.

The premier confirmed that "someone" had been ejected from the meeting. The Leader-Post said two men had been tossed out, one suffering minor injuries.

Chief Constable Henry Casswell said police were called to the hall eight times but that all was quiet each time officers arrived.

Mr. Douglas addressed 400 persons in support of William Schlemmer, defeated CCF candidate in Wednesday's by-election in the provincial constituency of Souris-Estevan.

start and gradually drew away from their opponents as the vote counting progressed.

The balloting in both constituencies was fairly heavy, with pleasant fall weather and completion of most harvesting bringing voters out in strength in the rural constituencies.

Mr. Kohaly became the second Progressive Conservative to enter the legislature since 1934. At one time when he was a painting outfit to finance his university studies, he was the employer of his 30-year-old school teacher rival.

The contest in Rosthern, held by the Liberals continuously since the first provincial election in 1903, brought a heavy vote for Social Credit, without a member in the House since 1944. In the 1952 election, a Social Credit candidate also ran last in a three-way fight but polled only 908 votes.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

This was going to be an opus about the Cougars, but obviously that's out of the question. Why? Because the Cougars have confounded everybody, including themselves, no doubt.

Why, we were all set to get melancholy, remembering some of the glories of the past, and dream up a philosophical piece about the club.

Your neighbors would have recognized the theme:

"Why give 'em a bad time just because they got away to a bad start." That's what some of the fans wanted—that 'bad time' stuff—after last Friday's defeat here.

But we couldn't see it that way at the time and wouldn't go along with it. We felt they deserved better because they WERE trying, both off the ice and on.

Yep, believe it or not, we were going to suggest that the Cougars, win or lose on the road, be given a rousing reception on their return home tomorrow, just to show the club and the players that the fans were still behind 'em. We felt that determined efforts were being made to alleviate the suffering of those first few weeks in the season and that a repeat performance of last year would not be condoned in the front office.

That was even before the Cougars tied the Royals and won over Calgary and Edmonton. Now they've turned the tables. They don't need a morale booster. They've supplied it themselves. They've compiled the best single road trip record of any Cougar club.

Players a Jump Ahead of the Team

And how they've done it? It's even got them confused, to a point.

Take Ernie Roche for example. First he's not going on the prairie trip. Then he is. The next thing you know he's expected in Montreal for the week-end. That's what they say in Montreal though there was nothing about Ernie's departure released from this end. And also Doug Anderson. Originally it was announced that it may take a week to swing the deal to get him from Buffalo here. But what does Anderson do? Suddenly he shows up at Edmonton and catches everyone off base. Gets an assist, too.

Then over in Westminster it's revealed that Ken MacKenzie of Royals is set to give up Gordie Fashaway and some fellow named "Joe" for Ed Dorohoy. All of the nerve. The Cougars last year turned thumbs down on Fashaway. Kenny still wants Dorohoy, however.

And, too, now the Cougars have five centres—count 'em—Billy Reay, Reg Abbott, Gene Achymichuk, Dorohoy and Anderson. Either one of two 'em are going to be made into wingmen or—well, you see what we mean!

And what about that fellow Ken Reardon? He comes out from Montreal and takes a gander at the Cougars. They lose. But what does he say? "There's nothing wrong with 'em." Simple, isn't it? So the Cougars promptly read this in the paper and haven't been beaten since.

Now, when Ken goes back to Montreal, they'll say: "What's up?"

Ken will drop his whip in the cupboard, and reply, "Nothin'."

A Simple Statement of Fact

Of course, the transformation is really quite simple. Before they left on the road the Cougars had scored but four goals in three games. Since then they've scored 13 in four games. It was suggested here that if the Cougars could put the puck in the net, their ills would be at an end. This they knew, but only needed to be reminded of the fact.

And who leads the parade? None other than Andy Heberton. Andy's the fellow who couldn't hit a barn door with a bucket of shot in the first few games—and just when everyone figured that Andy would be having his best year this season. Then the minute he's out of town, off he goes to prove the critics right.

And coach Billy Reay! Already running Casey Stengel a close second for line-up changes from game to game, he also waits until he's clear of the faithful, tosses all the names in a hat and presto! the Cougars, they click.

Yeah, you can't figure it. That's why we gaze with awe and respect at the Cougars today and their surprising (but welcome) form reversal.

They come home Friday and will find the whole town buzzin'. The town was buzzin' when they left, too, but that's because there was no honey on the pot then. This is different. This is a contented buzz. Odd sound, isn't it? Little wonder then that even the Cougars are confounded. Right?

Juniors Top Oldsters In City Cage Opener

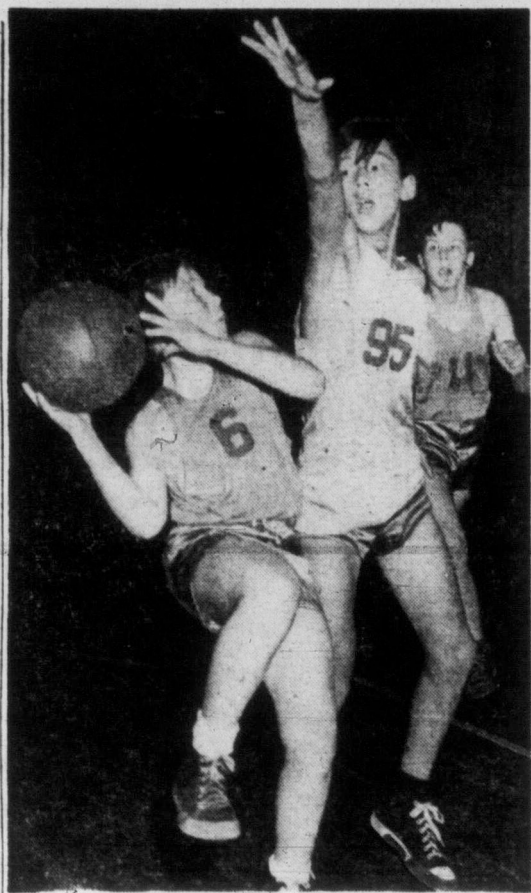

It didn't take long for Scott and Peden's junior men's basketball club to pull the first upset of the season as play opened in the Victoria and District Basketball Association at Victoria High School Wednesday night.

Howie Tooby's potent juniors reversed the dope sheet the first night out, battling to a 56-43 victory over Gordon Head Service senior C men's team in the final game of the three-game card.

Sparked by lanky Bill Dobbie, Al Davies and Alan Snowsall, the club got away to a good start and held the lead throughout the contest. Servicemen drew close near the end of the first and second quarters but failed to move to the front.

Dobbie utilized his six-foot, seven-inch frame to the utmost, mastering the backboards and chipping in with a 15-point scoring effort. Davies netted 16 to lead the club and Snowsall added 11 points.

Play in the Victoria and District Basketball Association opened at Victoria High School Wednesday night with a three-game exhibition card attended by close to 100 fans. Here L. Scherr of St. Louis College attempts to get away a shot while being checked by Tillicums' W. Wong in the midget boys' opening contest. D. Connor of St. Louis College moves in for rebound. MERCHANTS WIN

Clippers Take Fifth Straight

Merchants 5, V's 2; Nanaimo 8, Navy 1

By DENNY BOYD

Be it in their home kennel or in Victoria, Nanaimo Clippers are still top dogs in the Commercial Hockey League, with a bite that gets increasingly sharper with each succeeding week.

Wednesday night at Memorial Arena, Arnie Duggan led the Up-Island pack of greyhounds to their fifth straight victory without loss as they clobbered Navy, 8-1.

In the opener of the two-game card, Victoria Merchants put down Victoria V's, 5-2, to stay close behind Clippers.

Clippers continued to run away from the rest of the league, with their well-proportioned mixture of youth and experience, ranging from juniors like Jack Murphy to old-timers like Red Carr and Eddie Shamlock.

And Duggan, who falls in the middle of these two categories, was the man of the night as he picked up two goals and three assists for a five-point outing. Clipper's tiny goal-tender, Spanky Hodgson, who may turn out to be the class of the league, turned in another sharp performance, barely missing a shutout. Hodgson kept his citadel inviolate until Paul Wananmaker beat him at 6:53 of the third period.

Winger Joe Zuback slapped in a sliding pass from playing coach Shamlock at 12:43 of the first period to set the Nanaimo pattern and they added three in the second period and four in the third frame. Carr and Shadow Yesowich each scored a brace of goals with Yesowich adding an assist.

The game was enlivened somewhat in the first period when Shamlock and Navy's Archie McLean had a little more than words.

They collided on the boards and McLean threw a punch that cut Shamlock's brow for three stitches. McLean drew five minutes and Shamlock got two for retaliating. However, when he protested to referee Bert Nelson, Shamlock also received a 10-minute misconduct.

Cliff Coulter put Merchants ahead early in the first period with the first of his two goals but Bob Fowler tied it up, scoring for V's during a double penalty in the second period.

However, Joe Evans, Toby Brown and Coulter scored in fast order for Merchants before Fowler retaliated for V's.

Ron Bremner fired the last Merchant goal late in the final period.

V's hard-rock defense was effective but not quite effective enough to stop the depth in Merchants' forward contingent.

Cougars Tie Quakers; Royals Stop Canucks

Unbeaten on Road, Cats Home Friday

Victoria 3, Saskatoon 3
N. Westminster 4, Vancouver 3

Victoria Cougars headed west today while Ken Reardon headed east, the six-day union having a happy ending at Saskatoon Wednesday night.

It was just a week ago today that Reardon of the Montreal Canadiens boarded a TCA plane for Victoria and a diagnosis of the Cougars who until then had won only one of six Western Hockey League games.

Today Reardon is probably none the wiser as five games later the Cougars now have won three of 11 games, tied two and are unbeaten in their last four games.

Wednesday's 3-3 tie with Saskatoon Quakers at Saskatoon marked the fourth successive road game for the Cougars, and their sixth point out of a possible eight, and the best road record of any Cougar club in one away series.

After losing to Seattle here Friday, 3-1, they tied New Westminster, 1-1, defeated Calgary, 6-4, edged Edmonton, 3-2, and now have tied with Saskatoon.

Besides being the Quakers' fifth straight game without victory, the tie moved the Cougars out of the cellar for the first time.

CANUCKS STOPPED

And only the fact that New Westminster Royals ended Vancouver Canucks' nine game undefeated streak, nipping the Canucks, 4-3, kept the Cougars from moving further up the WHL ladder.

Sam Bettio was the spark which ignited the Cougars to three goals in the first period. He got two markers and rookie Gene Achymichuk the other.

The Quakers retaliated in kind on the first two goals, Vic Howe matching Bettio's opening counter and George Senick knotting the count at 2-2 before Bettio put the Cougars ahead 3-2 before the period's end. Jackie McLeod spoiled the Cougars' bid for a three-game prairie sweep by netting the tying goal late in the third period.

Quakers and Cougars meet at Victoria Friday night.

At New Westminster, Royals scored their first win on home ice this year.

There was no scoring in the first period, but in the second, Canucks blasted ahead 3-0 with two goals by Larry Poppin and one by Andy Bathgate. Then Jackie Hamilton, former Toronto Maple Leafs star, caught fire, scoring once and providing two passes which paid off in goals by Bobby Love and Ron Matthews. The period ended 3-3.

It was Hamilton again at 9:41 of the third, who teamed up with Bobby Love to serve a pass to Bob Paul. Paul rifled in the winning goal.

WORSLEY TAKES ILL

The period was held up 10 minutes when Lorne "Gump" Worsley, the league's leading goalie, fainted from the pain and constriction of torn stomach muscles.

The win puts Royals into third place behind Canucks and Calgary Stampede and one point ahead of Seattle Bombers.

CLEVELAND—Rocky Castellani, 184, Cleveland, outpunted Mickey Laurent, 184, France 10-1.

'PRICE GOING UP' ON CHUCK'S FAMOUS LETTER

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Chuck Dessen said Wednesday he has received a $4,000 offer for the letter he wrote to Walter O'Malley, head of Brooklyn Dodgers, in their celebrated breakoff in relations.

"The price is going up," Dessen remarked in revealing the offer from a national weekly magazine, Life.

Dessen broke with Brooklyn because O'Malley offered him only a one-year contract. He signed a three-year contract Tuesday to manage Oakland in the Pacific Coast League.

Dessen so far has declined to reveal contents of the letter. He said the first offer was $2,500, from a Los Angeles publication.

He declined to say whether he would accept the $4,000 offer.

Tom Fool Too Much Horse

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The news that Tom Fool, the eminent racehorse, is calling it a day must have caused a great many persons to ponder the ways of the men who ornament the sport of kings. Anyway, this agent pondered.

Tom Fool has won 10 straight races this year and there isn't a horse around capable of giving him an argument since Native Dancer was taken out of training. Many think the Greentree phenom is the greatest handicap champion there ever was, and the figures pretty well support them.

So, here he is at the top, and there's a $75,000 or $100,000 race going on somewhere close nearly every week-end. He can win any of them with-

Cadet Ball-Carriers—Beware!

Inter-service rivalry comes to the fore Saturday when Navy and Royal Roads tangle in a battle for first place in the Victoria Junior Canadian Football League. One big barrier in Royal Roads' way will be Navy's 200-pound junior tackle Doug Brown. Besides being a rough customer on defense, Brown is one of the best place-kickers in the league, taking care of the sailors' converts and field goal attempts. Saturday's game, the only one scheduled this week-end, will be at Heywood Avenue at 2.

Strang Gets B.C.'s Bid For B.E.G. Post

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lloyd Swindells of Vancouver was re-elected president Wednesday night at the annual meeting of the B.C. Track and Field Association here.

Other officers named were: Vice-president, Harry Mitchell; Secretary, second vice-president, Mrs. Eulalie Parnell of North Vancouver was elected secretary and Ezra Henninger of Vancouver and Grand Forks, treasurer.

Strang was nominated for the job as Canada's British Empire Games track and field coach, final selection to be made Nov. 13-14 when the Amateur Athletic Union meets in Montreal.

Strang was coach and manager of the B.C. track team which swept the Canadian inter-provincial championships in Toronto last month, taking nine firsts and six seconds.

Ken "Hooker" Wright of New Westminster was nominated as manager to manage Canada's entry.

Cordova Bay In Double Win

Cordova Bay midgets downed Brentwood, 6-3, in the opening game of the Saanich and Suburban Basketball League at Cordova Bay Community Hall Wednesday night.

Saanich bantam girls defeated Cordova Bay, 29-12, in the second game, and Sooko bantam boys drubbed Cordova Bay bantams, 52-12, in the final.

CLEVELAND—Joe Giambra, 161, Buffalo, N.Y., stopped Don Wild Oates, 161, Hamilton, Ont., 11.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers struck where they were supposed to be the weakest—along the ground—to smother Saskatchewan Roughriders 43-5, Wednesday, in the first game of their two-game, total-point Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final before more than 17,000 fans.

Bombers now will carry a 38-point margin, gained mainly on the six-touchdown performance of their Winnipeg-born fullback, Lorne Benson, into the second game at Regina, Saturday afternoon.

Known strictly as a passing club since Jack Jacobs came to Winnipeg in 1950, the Bombers moved mostly along the ground in gaining their victory over the favored Riders. Saskatchewan had beaten the Bombers in four out of six meetings during the regular schedule.

CANADIAN OFFENSIVE

With Joe Black Magic Zaleski at the helm, Bombers picked up 289 yards along the ground, compared with 59 by Frankie Filchok's second-place Riders. Benson, rookie award winner in 1952, alone went for 163 yards as coach George Traflet relied on Canadian players for his offensive backfield, and American imports on defense.

Throughout most of the game, Zaleski handed off brilliantly to Benson, Len Meltzer and Andy Sokol, while—league-leading scorer Buddy Korchak took care of the flying wing chores. All are Canadian-born.

NEW RECORD
Meltzer scored Bombers' seventh major, and Korchak converted them all and added a single on a long kick-off.

Benson's six touchdowns set a WIFU record for one game. The previous mark was three, held by several players. Benson also set a western record for yards rushing in one game as he romped 163. The previous record was Normie Kwong's 161 yards for Edmonton.

Bobby Marlow, all-American half back from Alabama, plunged into the Riders' five points. Del Warden missed the convert.

But Bombers' strength was not in the backfield alone. The entire front wall turned in one of its best efforts of the year, and the defensive backs left little to be desired, intercepting eight Rider pass attempts. Buddy Grant, who plays end of offense, picked off five of the Rider throws, two of which set up Bomber touchdowns.

The old mark for pass interceptions was five, set by Calgary last year.

Quarterbacks Frankie Filchok, playing coach, and Glenn Dobbs, both former National Football League stars, failed to get the highly-regarded Rider backs going along the ground, but had fair success in the air. The pair completed 17 of 33 passes for 171 yards. But most of the gains were in their own territory or in midfield.

Filchok started but gave way in the third quarter to Dobbs, still hampered by a knee injury. The Dobbs, all-star western quarterback in 1951, pitched Riders into position for Marlow's touchdown late in the third quarter after Bombers had built up a 30-0 lead.

Herbie Johnson, import half-back, was Riders most consistent ground grainer, while Neilson Greene, a transplanted easterner, showed to good advantage on runbacks of kicks and kick-offs. Marlow was the pick of the defensive squad.

Esk Coach Doubtful If Vessels Will Play

WINNIPEG (CP)—Coach Darrell Royal of Edmonton Eskimos said Wednesday night he is doubtful if halfback Billy Vessels will be able to play any more football this year.

Royal said the Oklahoma import is still suffering much pain and is still in hospital. Asked if he thought Vessels would play again this year, he said, "I don't know. I don't think so."

Vessels was injured in the final game of the season last Saturday against Winnipeg on a tackle by Buck Rogers of the Bombers.

Rangers Badly Beaten

It took Sid Abel, the old Detroit star, just a season to prove that he could get a lot of extra mileage out of his players and apparently he still has the touch.

Always a great team man in his playing days, Abel took over as coach of Chicago's Black Hawks a little more than a year ago and the Hawks did better than anyone else figured they would in the National Hockey League race last season.

Old Bootnose, with mostly veteran and cast-off players, guided the Hawks into the playoffs after tying the Bruins for third place with 69 points.

FEW CHANGES

Abel made few changes in the club this season. He got Larry Wilson, a forward, and defenseman Larry Zeidel from Detroit during the summer, brought up a couple of players from the minors and unloaded forward Cal Gardner.

Until Wednesday night the Black Hawks of 1953-54 were a flop. They lost seven of their first eight games—the last four by one goal.

On New York ice Wednesday night, the victory-hungry Hawks finally found themselves. They scored in every period to trounce New York Rangers 6-1 in the only game scheduled. It was the sixth straight time over a two-season span the Hawks have beaten New York on Garden ice and the seventh time in eight games.

The clubs battled fairly evenly until the last minute of the first period when Wilson rammed in a 15-footer while the Rangers had a man in the penalty box.

RANGER GOAL

Centre Don Raleigh got the Ranger goal midway in the middle session.

Pete Conacher and the veteran Bill Mosienko whipped through the disorganized Rangers in the second period for goals.

Gus Mortson started the third-period flurry when he converted Jim McFadden's pass at 7:26. Then McFadden and young Murray Costello followed with solo goals to make the game a rout.

Al Dewsbury, Chicago defenseman, didn't get a penalty Wednesday night. He had previously been fined $50 by club president Bill Tobin for getting too many.

Tonight the Toronto Maple Leafs take on the first-place Canadiens in Montreal.

Prospective Notre Dame Students Required to Give Collar Size

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEW YORK (NEA)—A bird dog decides that a high school boy might be of considerable help to Notre Dame, and writes Head Coach Frank Leahy.

The scout gets a reply from Assistant Coach Bob McBride, as follows:

"In regard to your letter concerning Joe Blow, we wish to again enlist your aid. We will appreciate your help much more than any words of mine can express.

"Would you have Joe write me a letter in which he expresses his interest in Notre Dame?"

"This letter is required by Big Ten rules."

"We must have it before we can contact the boy directly. It is in no way binds him. We would also like Joe to have his principal send us an unofficial transcript of his high school credits in order to see if he is qualified for admission.

"Enclosed is a questionnaire for Joe to fill out and return to me at his earliest convenience. Again, many thanks for your continued interest in Notre Dame."

The questionnaire is headed "Questionnaire for Prospective Students," but principal questions are offensive and defensive positions, weight, height, collar size and speed in the 100-yard dash.

This is the newest approach in the recruiting of college football players.

Jeff Cravath, who was dismissed as southern California's head man after the 1950 season, admits having broken the anti-proselyting rules with the best.

In a magazine piece, Cravath, who took southern Cal to the Rose Bowl four times in nine years, describes how he lost Johnny Olszewski to California in the biggest proselyting deal in which he was ever involved.

"I took the boy to dinner," he says. "The next day one of our wealthy alumni who lived in Johnny's home town, Long Beach, Calif., got in touch with him."

"The alumni offered the athlete a new car, $150 a month, expenses through law school and a partnership in the alumni's firm after graduation."

"I knew all along that an alumni of California had been keeping close track of Johnny all summer. I suspected by late August that California was winning the decision. Still I wanted to make one last bid for Johnny's services. It was arranged for us to have dinner again."

"But when he drove up to my office in a new auto I knew I was dead."

Bomber Coach Finds Winning Combination

BY ART BRYDON

WINNIPEG (CP)—Coach George Trafton of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers presided in the dressing room like a majordomo after his club trounced Saskatchewan Roughriders 43-5 Wednesday night.

His white fedora cocked at a jaunty angle and a smile on his face for the first time in weeks, Trafton handled questions with the dexterity of a skilled quarterback.

"You can't beat 'em if you can't stop 'em," said the burly coach when a reporter asked him why so much of his import talent was concentrated on defense. Jack Jacobs, Dave Skrien, Bud Grant and Neil Armstrong all played fine defensive ball.

Trafton ran Canadians Len Meltzer, Andy Sokol, Bud Korchak and Lorne Benson, who scored six touchdowns, in the halfback slots with Ohio import Joe Zaleski at quarter.

"We used a similar combination against Edmonton Saturday and it worked fine," said Trafton.

It was a fairly quiet scene, considering the magnitude of the win. Dean Bandiera, defensive guard, received the award for the most valuable Canadian player on the team just after the game ended and accepted congratulations before making a fast exit to join his wife.

Benson was loud in his praise of Trafton. He said the coach was right in making him sit out a couple of games to rest for the semi-finals. Tom Casey, speedy Negro backfielder, was another player used sparingly.

He also rested the final game of the season.

Trafton said resting Casey was a matter of strategy. "We were into the playoffs anyway and he was more good to us fresh," he said.

The pall of silence in the Regina dressing room was pierced only by the rustle of equipment as the players rushed to catch their train.

Said coach Frank Filchock, who quartered half the game before giving way to Glenn Dobbs, "they just beat the devil out of us."

On Benson's performance, Filchock said, "what can you say when a guy scores six touchdowns?" His last word was to the players as he called them for a 6 p.m. practice Thursday at Regina.

Leafs Keep LeClair

TORONTO (BUP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs decided today to retain centre Jackie LeClair after four unidentified National Hockey League clubs attempted to pick him up on waivers.

Leaf officials said LeClair probably would be sent to their American Hockey League farm club, the Pittsburgh Hornets.

Esquimalt To Risk Soccer Lead

Esquimalt Dockyarders will be out to lengthen their lead in the Victoria and District Football Association Saturday when they meet last-place Heaney's at Windsor Park at 2:30.

Esquimalt currently holds down top spot by a one-point margin over Canadian Scottish, having downed Victoria West 2-1 last Sunday. Victory would assure Esquimalt of remaining in front after action is completed this week-end.

However, Heaney's put up a strong battle Saturday before bowing to Scottish, 4-3, on a late goal by Glen Smith, and with an upset victory over the front runners this week could escape the league cellar.

Sunday, Scottish tangles with Wood Motors at Colville Road while Civil Service battles Victoria West at Athletic Park. Both games are at 2:30.

Ray Would Be Welcome But Not at List Price

NEW YORK (CP)—If Sugar Ray Robinson wants to give up singing and dancing to return to the boxing business, he will be welcomed—if he is in good shape and doesn't ask too much money.

This was the opinion Wednesday of Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club.

He said the club has made offers to Robinson from time to time since his retirement last December but any talk of a guarantee of $300,000 was out.

"Figure it out for yourself," he said. "If he fought Bobo Olson, the champ would have to get at least the same money. At 30 per cent each, the fight would have to gross $1,400,000, considering taxes, to give Robinson $300,000. We might do that outdoors, if Rocky Marciano fought some good boy on the same card."

"If Robinson decided he wants to fight some more, we'd be happy to have him, provided he demonstrates that he is in good fighting condition. And that doesn't mean just keeping his legs in shape by dancing. I'd say he'd have to have three months in the gym."

Robinson said in Richmond, Va., Tuesday night that he is to meet George Gainford, his manager, in Philadelphia, the next stop on his tour. Gainford, however, was on his way to Boston with his fighter, Danny Womber, who meets Wilbur Wilson on the Saturday night fight series. "I don't know if he wants to fight or not," said Gainford.

AS WIRKOWSKI GOES, SO GO THE ARGONAUTS

TORONTO (BUP)—Frank Clair, coach of the Toronto Argonauts, banked on quarterback Nobby Wirkowski today to put him in the eastern final playoffs for the Grey Cup "one game at a time."

As long as Nobby is healthy, the Argos will be dangerous. But if anything sidelines him, the scullers won't have a replacement.

Ottawa could replace Tom O'Malley with Avatus Stone, Hamilton could use Bernie Custis for a damaged Ed Songin and Al Dekdebrun could fill in for Montreal's Sam Etcheverry.

Wirkowski's insurance used to be Joe Krol. But Krol has a knee injury and isn't likely to get back in action. He retires from football after this season.

England's Pie King Goes for Merry Run

CAMDEN, N.J. (UP)—The Pie King, England's two-year-old thoroughbred champion, ran away at Garden State Park early today, cleared a four-foot high fence and then raced through the stable area to return to his stall, apparently injured.

The invader, here for a crack at America's best two-year-olds in Saturday's Garden State Stakes, world's richest race, was being schooled from the gate. Jockey Tommy Gosling, his regular rider, was in the saddle. Co-owners Ray Bell and Ellwood Johnson and trainer Michael Connolly were spectators to Pie King's romp.

When the gate opened and the bell rang, the Pie King was off fast. About 100 yards down the track, muddy and slippery from an all-night rain, he slipped, skidded almost to his knees and Gosling was thrown as the saddle slipped.

The Pie King raced down the back stretch for about a quarter of a mile, then cleared the outside rail like a steeplechaser, and sped through the crowded barn area as the cry of "loose horse" went up. He came to a halt, unassisted at his own stall.

A quick examination by the owners and trainers showed no injury to the Pie King and the job of cooling him out went on as if he had a regularly scheduled workout. Gosling was uninjured in the spill.

Bell, Johnson and Connolly said that apparently nothing had happened which would interfere with the Pie King.

DEFECTIVE IGNITION WIRES— SURE SOURCE OF TROUBLE

A frequent cause of hard starting in motor cars, and sometimes overlooked, is ignition wiring which may appear to be perfectly OK but actually is defective because the insulation has become soggy from moisture or rotted from oil and grease.

A new set of ignition wires can be installed at modest cost and will insure quick starts if the motor, battery and electrical system are otherwise in good condition. On cars which are not garaged regularly, and in which the wires are not specially shielded or treated, replacement every couple of years is advisable.

New Engines Power Dodge

Swank Body Styling Conceals
Rugged, Proven Engineering

By DON INGHAM, Times Automotive Editor

The new Dodge models now on display at J. M. Wood Motors, among the first of the 1954 models to reach the Victoria market, are making a frank bid for the ladies' attention.

New color combinations both inside and out are designed to please the distaff side of the house, as are the automatic transmissions and power steering.

However, there is still sufficient sturdy automobile hidden under the body to please the men, and to give lasting response to rough, he-man driving over rough roads (if one's wife will allow such a sleek, superbly finished car off the pavement).

In the Dodge line for 1954 are the six-cylinder Mayfair, Regent and Crusader, all built on the same chassis and using the same 108-horsepower motor. The Crusader price starts at a modest $2,548, and most expensive model is the Suburban station wagon at $2,874.

Regent prices range from $2,685 to $3,041, and the swanky Mayfair hardtop is most expensive of the group at $3,075.

All six-cylinder models have a 114-inch wheelbase, and overall weights range from 3,200 to 3,250 pounds.

CLASSY FAVORITE

Classy favorite of the public is the V-8 Royal, known last year as the Coronet, with 150 horsepower under the hood rather than the 140 of last year's car.

Called by salesmen a "performing fool," its lively Red Ram engine does indeed snap one's head back with a jab at the throttle-in-high gear. Its over-square (bore larger than stroke) motor boasts 241.3 cubic inches of piston displacement at a compression ratio of 7.5 to 1, and develops its rated performance at 4,400 revolutions per minute.

The seemingly high RPMs are not at all alarming in the short stroke motor considering the small amount of piston travel.

All models handle easily and ride well, and are a pleasing and well-engineered combination of appearance, performance and economy.

WONDER WINDOW

One insignificant detail that may well attract more buyers to Dodge than many of the more obvious advantages are the windows.

Barely one complete turn of the crank runs the windows from bottom to top, or top to bottom. When a hand signal is needed in a rush, there is a minimum of delay in dropping the window.

Solex glass, heaters, air control, defrosters, power steering, signal lights, radio, and all other accessories demanded by motorists today are available.

Substantial reductions are allowed for factory delivery.

Signal in Advance

Police advise motorists to give sufficient warning by signals when making a turn or other driving manoeuvre.

Many drivers who pride themselves on their consistency in giving signals actually are not as safe as they believe, because they fail to give notice well in advance.

A last-minute signal often is as bad as no signal at all.

Wheel Balancing Makes Your Car Steer Better,

IMPROVE THE SAFETY OF YOUR CAR

TRY THIS TEST

The nearest approach to why balancing is necessary can be easily demonstrated with this test: Tie a small weight on a length of string, spin it at the estimated speed of your car wheels (approx. 40 miles per hour). Feel the effect. This action is multiplied many times over in the case of your car wheels if they are not in true balance.

SAFER MOTORING

By JACK SMITH

Automobile Engineer
Subject to Pressure

INSTANTMENT 8

The engineer's position in the building of cars is not an enviable one.

He would like to build a car as a piece of machinery with the whole emphasis on its efficiency. Apart from the difficult job of designing the machine, he is beset by two people who have to be considered, the production manager and sales manager.

The engineer gets a new wave, such as a new valve for the motor of "K" steel that just won't burn out. The sales end is delighted at the idea of reduction in sales resistance, but the production man says "no. It costs too much."

The only time an engineer can really enjoy himself is in the construction of a first-class racing car where performance is everything.

Hopeless Spot

On the face of it, it appears that with the exception of two or three cars, built without regard to cost, the engineer is in a hopeless spot.

But he has allies.

One is the chemist, whose research has produced reasonably priced high-octane fuels allowing the engineer to build a high-compression engine. When gasoline burns in a combustion chamber, the pressure to which the mixture has been compressed is increased five times. By raising this initial pressure of 50 or 60 pounds per square inch to about 150, the piston is given three times the push, thereby increasing power three times.

Of course, the engineer himself had not been idle, and by skillful design of the combustion chamber and effective cooling had boosted compression from about 40 to 60 pounds. There he became stuck until chemistry gave him high-octane gasoline.

One might say, why all the power? Well, if an engine one-third the size will do, it is obvious the mileage will be increased.

Must Please Buyer

The salesman who is in touch with the buyer and his wants must influence design, since if the cars don't sell everybody gets fired.

The demand for enormous, wide, luxurious bodies and all the extra mechanism for power tops and other improvements has forced the engineer to build a bigger frame, stronger axles, bigger brakes, and the cost department has fits. However, he has to produce results to satisfy both.

Again the rescue, this time by the metallurgist.

He discovers far stronger steel alloys. The small transmission gears and axles of today would have scared a 1912 engineer to death. They outlast the big, old-time gears and axles because of elements that prevent fatigue and failure.

The older car had solid beams for axles, and when traveling fast the car became difficult to handle owing to the great weight of the wheels, plus the main part of the springs and the axles themselves, bouncing along over the bumps and being out of contact with the surface for long periods.

Engineers with this problem first on race tracks, but though the results of independent wheel suspension undoubtedly provided the solution, the cost prevented its use on low and medium-priced cars.

Finally the demand for at least independent front-wheel suspension became so insistent that it was adopted by most cars. Clever design simplified it until nearly all cars have it today.

New Suspension

Rear independent suspension, though on all European Grand Prix race cars, is still a problem. It is now available on Lagonda, Porsche, Tatra, Volkswagen, and a few others, and will in time be used on all but the most economically produced cars.

The engineer and the professional race driver prefer a floor gear shift lever, since it is the fastest and most positive, and gives the most acceleration. However, with the demand for more room in the front seat, column shifts became popular with the public.

Type of Operation Governs Oil Change

Oil changes should be made in accordance with both mileage and the type of driving being done.

Stop and start driving in town is much harder on oil than equivalent highway mileage at steady but not excessive speeds, and changes should be made accordingly.

Experts advise against going beyond 2,000 miles without a change and suggest 1,000-mile changes under hard driving conditions.

Factory Retreading Methods Give New Tire Performance Plus

One of the finest tire plants in Canada is now in operation under the management of Earl Darling at Victoria Tire Limited. The plant is equipped throughout with retreading and recapping equipment supplied by the Super Mold Corporation of Lodi, California, and is manned by a crew which is thoroughly trained in tire renewing.

Newest methods leave no part of the retreading to guesswork or chance. When the tire is brought into the plant it is inspected inside and out. This is done by placing it in a "spreader" where it is carefully examined for major flaws. If the tire is too badly damaged and cannot be retreaded successfully, it is rejected.

The tire which passes this examination is then accurately measured in order to insure proper selection of new tread stock, then it is buffed to form a rough surface for the laying of the new rubber.

At Victoria Tire Limited, only Goodyear factory methods are used. When buffing is completed, a layer of Goodyear vulcanizing cement is applied, then a heavy layer of new rubber is sealed to the tread portion of the tire. At this point, the diameter and over-all measurements of the tire are taken as a guide in adjusting the Lodi mold for proper tread width.

From these tire measurements and Lodi charts, the operator arrives at the exact mechanical adjustments required for accurate fit between mold and tire. The depth of the new tread determines the exact time and degree of heat necessary to vulcanize the new tread to the old. When it is removed from the mold, the tire has a new balanced tread which is equal to that of a new tire in performance.

Earl Darling of Victoria Tire points out that there are tens of thousands of sound tire casings now in use which will easily outlast one or more new treads which cushion and protect them. Since these casings are the most expensive part of the tire it is good economy to save them as long as possible. A retread saves from 40% to 60% of tire costs and is guaranteed to give new tire performance.

When should the retreading job be done? Just as soon as the old tread design begins to disappear. The tire becomes smooth and loses its grip. To try and squeeze the last few miles from tires, after they begin to lose their treads, means harder steering, rougher riding, invites punctures, cuts, bruises and blow-outs which will damage the valuable tire casing and may even be the cause of a tragic accident.

Advanced recapping methods produce a finished job which can hardly be distinguished from a new tire. Up-to-date tread designs include special treads for local climate and road conditions. Motorists who are familiar with the retreading processes are lengthening tire life and effecting much appreciated savings by taking advantage of this important service.

At Victoria Tire, the Lodi equipment can handle all sizes and types of passenger and truck tires including tires for all small and English cars... plus heavy logging and grader tires. Expert workmanship and finest tire rebuilding molds make it possible to guarantee the retreads to double the life of a tire.

A fleet inspection service is in operation which can be carried into any truck operation on Vancouver Island. This convenience is of major importance to Island industry and has been the means of substantial savings both in time and convenience to many large firms. Free tire inspection is always available to motorists at the local plant.

Victoria Tire Limited, Vancouver Island's largest and finest equipped retreading plant, is located at the corner of Government and Herald Streets in downtown Victoria.

Sylvesters Remain Undefeated

Sylvester U-Drive has established itself as the team to beat in the Victoria Table Tennis Association senior A league. Undefeated in three previous starts, Sylvester's continued their winning ways at Club Sirocco Monday night, clipping Macdonald's Ltd. 18-14, to maintain their unbeaten skin.

Too Much Barrett, That's All

Ray Barrett was the big individual winner in the Senior B Table Tennis League at the Club Sirocco Tuesday night. Barrett racked up nine victories to pace Barrett & Sons Transfer to a 30-16 decision over B.C. Airlines, enabling the club to keep pace with its co-leaders, Gordon's Sporting Goods, who downed Morgan and Tucker, 26-6.

Ray Greenwood and Art Gamble of Gordon's each posted eight victories.

City's Medical, Social Workers Join Forces To Form Committee for Aid of Disabled

First steps toward setting up a Victoria Rehabilitation Centre for the disabled of Vancouver Island were taken Wednesday night.

Gathered to name a committee to consider the problem was one of the largest representation of medical and social welfare workers ever to meet together in this city.

The meeting, called by the medical-social division of the Community Welfare Council, a Red Feather agency, heard Frank Thompson, B.A., M.S.W., officer for the Vancouver Western Society of Rehabilitation. He outlined recent establishment of a similar project in the mainland city.

At the conclusion of his talk, officials from four city and district hospitals, municipal health bodies, nurses' associations, service clubs, the P.T.A., the Indian Society and the B.C.H.S., all pledged support to the scheme. They were joined by representatives from societies devoted to care of persons afflicted with multiple sclerosis, arthritis, spastic disorders and cerebral palsy.

TRAINEES' FEES

Mr. Thompson explained that a group in Vancouver in the space of six years, with provincial and federal aid, had almost completed a $70,000 rehabilitation centre adjoining Shaughnessy Hospital there.

He said that the expected $250,000 annual operating cost will be met by the provincial government, by fees for "trainees," (paid by service clubs and fraternal organizations mostly), and by an endowment fund. Nearly 3 per cent of all Canadians will at some time require the assistance of a rehabilitation establishment and in Victoria, where the population has a larger share of older people, the percentage may be even greater.

Aim of such a centre would be to achieve maximum function of the disabled and gain for them an active, useful place in the nation's society.

MORE RESOURCES

Speaking to the proposal that the Community Welfare Council should work toward a centre here was George Masters, Royal Jubilee Hospital administrator.

"We have more resources per capita than Vancouver had when the plan was started there, and polo this year has left us with a vital rehabilitation program need. We will have it again," he said.

"We have trained people and the equipment here now. For a starter we could aim at coordinating those services which we have now."

Echoing his views were Dr. David Boyd of the Queen Alexandra Solarium and Dr. Murray Anderson, Jubilee medical supervisor. Sister Mary Loretta of St. Joseph's X-ray and hydrotherapy department pledged use of that hospital's facilities.

The meeting was unanimous in setting up a sub-committee under DVA Veterans' Hospital welfare officer, A. Gilmour.

Named president of the council medical-social division for the ensuing year was Bill Hooton, newly appointed director of welfare for the city.

First vice-president is Jack Thompson, Jubilee welfare officer, and Miss Hattie Staghal of the Family and Children's Service is second vice-president.

Miss Mary Wright was returned as secretary. A committee for care of the aged is headed by Alec Davidson of city welfare. Rehabilitation committee is under A. Gilmour.

DVA: The head of the home care division will be named at a later date by the incoming executive.

Retiring chairman is city medical health officer, Dr. J. L. Gayton.

Miner Missing After Slide at Lorne Creek

DOREEN, B.C. (CP).—An elderly unidentified man is missing and two others recovering from shock suffered Tuesday night when a giant rock slide crushed their placer mining camp on Lorne Creek, two miles north of the CNR flag station.

Oscar Nelson, about 50, hiked out from camp Wednesday and told how the slide carried his 60-year-old partner away and knocked over Oscar Sikora, 45, injuring his left leg.

Nelson helped Sikora to their cabin, about a mile from the mining site, and spent the night searching for the missing man before hiking here.

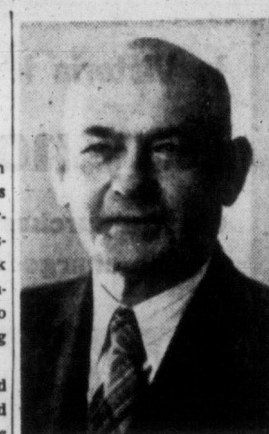

The miners had been at the Lorne Creek site for the past two months.

The missing man is believed to have been carried into Lorne Creek.

There is no "overnight cure" for irregularity

But there is a simple, natural answer to the common problem of irregularity due to lack of bulk

There are men and women (perhaps you're one of them) who won't let "nature take its course". THEY TRY TO SUBSTITUTE UNNATURAL "FORCING ACTION" FOR THE NATURAL REGULARITY WHICH SENSIBLE DAILY HABITS AND SUFFICIENT BULK IN THE DIET COULD PROBABLY MAINTAIN.

Many fall into the habit of using laxatives in a way laxative makers never intended. They take "big doses" with-out even reading the directions on the label.

Naturally, such over-dosing—with products intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage—exerts upon the delicate digestive system an unnatural strain.

There's nothing wrong, of course, with taking laxatives occasionally. If you feel you have to take a laxative, just be sure you take it wisely—in an accurate, recommended dose.

BUT THERE IS A WAY TO AVOID TAKING DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES AND TO PLACE YOUR DEPENDENCE ON NATURE, IF LACK OF BULK IN THE DIET IS YOUR TROUBLE.

In many natural foods—such as certain vegetables, fruits, and grains—nature grows abundant natural bulk which normally and naturally aids the rhythmic process of elimination.

In no other natural food is natural bulk so ideally found as in the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel, known generally as bran.

Bran is nature's "laxative food instead of a medicine". When properly processed and shredded, whole wheat bran yields smooth natural bulk that the digestive system can handle in a natural way.

The Kellogg Company has made whole wheat bran into a delicious breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN PERFORMS NATURALLY WHAT DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES DO CHEMICALLY. IT HELPS CLEAR THE INTESTINES OF WASTE IN A NATURAL WAY. IT PROVIDES SOFT NATURAL BULK FOR EASY NATURAL ACTION.

There is no stomach upset, no churning, no after-effect except the feeling of satisfaction and fulfillment that comes with natural, normal elimination.

To obtain lasting relief, of course, Kellogg's All-Bran must be eaten regularly. You can have it for breakfast every morning secure in the knowledge that it isn't habit-forming.

More than one million servings of Kellogg's All-Bran are consumed each day. This popularity of itself is proof that this natural laxative cereal lives up to what we say about it.

But even better proof comes from thousands of satisfied All-Bran users. They write of their own free will to tell us what natural relief they receive from eating Kellogg's All-Bran daily and drinking plenty of water.

EAT KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN EVERY MORNING FOR BREAKFAST FOR 10 DAYS. THEN, IF YOU'RE NOT COMPLETELY SATISFIED, SEND THE EMPTY CARTON TO THE KELLOGG COMPANY, LONDON, ONTARIO—AND GET DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

Remember—Kellogg's All-Bran has helped millions. Why not you?

Municipal Act Change Would Give Husbands, Wives By-Law Votes

UBCM Supports Victoria Resolution Allowing Cities to Aid Art Centres

Spouses of property owners will be allowed to vote on money by-laws under legislation to be introduced at the 1954 session of the Legislature.

This assurance was given the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in Vancouver Wednesday by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

The UBCM asked for the provision in submissions during the recent session, but Mr. Black said the matter had been tabled until 1954 when it will be advanced by his department.

The move requires an amendment to the Municipal Elections Act.

The minister was addressing 250 delegates to the 50th UBCM convention. The parley is scheduled to debate 56 resolutions affecting B.C. municipalities and villages.

Mr. Black reiterated a statement he made during the last session that the Municipal Act will be completely revised.

He said the work will be undertaken after the 1954 session of the legislature.

NEET: MODERNIZING

"The act needs re-organizing, re-writing and modernizing," he said. "I think everyone will agree that is overdue."

Mr. Black said the new act will provide for a new classification for towns. The existing act only covers cities, district municipalities and villages.

The revision job will take about two years, he said.

The provincial secretary, dealing with civil defense, urged municipalities to look to the future. He warned, however, the main responsibility for civil defense must rest on the municipality.

The convention endorsed a Victoria resolution asking government authority to make grants to art centres and other cultural activities.

Greater Victoria municipalities will have authority to grant financial aid to the Greater Victoria Arts Centre if the government favors the proposal.

The UBCM adopted a Saanich resolution requesting a Municipal Act amendment giving

RED PROPAGANDA OUTDONE BY KINSEY, SAYS LECTURER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. Alfred Kinsey's Sexual Behavior in the Human Female was more demoralizing to United States troops in Korea than Red propaganda, says John Morley, lecturer who recently returned from the Orient. The Kinsey report, Morley said at a civic meeting Wednesday, told 200,000 Americans overseas that "one out of every four American wives has been unfaithful."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Don't pay any attention to me. I just work here. And if you don't think it's work, look what arrived in the morning mail:

To Mr. Monte Roberts,
Insane Dept.,
The Times,
Dear Sir:

You will be pleased to learn Prof. Inkstein has finally agreed to give you an outline of his THEORY OF VOLUBILITY, and I append herewith a very much abbreviated and simplified synopsis of the consummation of his life studies.

Royal Oak. Yours truly, A. H. PEASE.

INKSTEIN'S THEORY OF VOLUBILITY

It is evident that every child is, at birth, allotted a certain number of words. This is a definite and unalterable number, and has to last him (or her) throughout a lifetime.

And the number of words allotted will be accurate and exact for the whole lifetime up to the last second of existence.

Clearly, some are endowed with many billions of words while others are allotted only a few hundred thousand.

For instance, I have a friend I occasionally visit, and he pours out such a cataract of words, that I never get a chance to deplete my own stock.

It is part of the Inkstein theory that super-volubility is encouraged by tea parties and cocktail parties; parliamentary debates, elections and by-elections; and women talking about other women.

The point the wise student will remember is, avoid these occasions where an unusual demand will be made upon your supply of words.

Profligate use of one's allotment denotes either an early demise, which will naturally coincide with the depletion of your stock of words to the vanishing point; or the party concerned has been allotted an unusually large ration in the first place.

Unfortunately, no person can ascertain whether or not he has been given a large supply of words at birth.

Therefore, the Inkstein theory of volubility in direct relationship to longevity is,

KEEP YOUR TRAP SHUT AND YOU'LL LIVE A LOT LONGER.

Respectfully submitted, I. Inkstein, Professor of Applied Verbosity, University of Merryland.

Sorry, I have to go now. Here come those nice men in the white jackets.

Weather Instrument Missing En Route to Station Papa

Canadian transport and U.S. air force officials are searching today for an important weather instrument which disappeared while being flown from Victoria to Sacramento, Calif., last week. The instrument was sent to Sacramento for shipment to the weather ship Stonetown at station "Papa." It is an important piece of equipment used to obtain accurate weather reports for air navigation.

He thought for a moment, and then continued with a chuckle: "When my niece is as old as I am now, Gwen will be double Mary's present age, and you'll have guessed they're both in their teens. I'll introduce you to my niece if you tell me her name." Mike knew that Steve was 40, and so he figured it out: can you?

Wednesday's answer: Their total cost $3.99.

RAIN COMING IN FOG'S WAKE

The small storm that dissipated fog over Victoria will give cloudy and sunny periods Friday, the weatherman said today.

Another storm now delivering rain at the weather station probably will reach the coast by Friday evening or Saturday morning, he said. Visibility has improved over the whole Georgia Strait area and airlines, "weathered in" Wednesday morning, have resumed normal operations. Winds will be light Friday, and temperatures will be between 45 and 55 degrees.

RCMP FAIL TO IDENTIFY SKELETON

Thetis Lake Find Still Mystery

Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters here today admitted they had come to a "dead end" in their efforts to identify the skeleton of a human male discovered near the shore of Thetis Lake last Saturday by Boy Scouts.

"Our investigations attempting to tie the bones to missing mental patients failed," an official reported.

It was first thought the skeleton was that of a man released from the Wilkinson Road mental home in 1947 to work on a dairy farm. This proved false. Neither are the remains those of a mental patient who escaped from Essondale in 1950, although that man's clothing was similar to that found on the bones.

"At the present time we have no leads to follow," police said. There are no indications of foul play.

Nurses Seek Starting Pay Boost of $15

A wage boost to $225 a month for starting salaries is being sought by 190 graduate nurses at Royal Jubilee Hospital, it was announced Wednesday.

Present starting wage is $210. Most other employee groups at the hospital will renew current contracts at the same wage scales, George Masters, Jubilee administrator, believes.

St. Joseph's Hospital may face wage demands by nurses also, but medical superintendent Dr. J. A. Brunet is in Vancouver and could not comment.

Almost 2,000 nurses and allied workers in Nanaimo, Greater Vancouver and New Westminster are engaged in negotiation for a 10 per cent across-the-board boost through the Hospital Employees' Federal Union (TEU).

Ladysmith, Duncan and Port Alberni hospital employees will be involved in the same bargaining.

Business agent William Black, said standardization of pay rates for carpenters, electricians and other tradesmen in the hospitals' staffs will be asked, as well as increased holiday pay benefits.

Warning of a stiff battle for the increase was forecast in the announcement of demands.

"The most stringent measures under the ICA Act will be invoked to win our demands," said William Black, union business agent, in announcing plans for negotiations.

Refrigeration Lack Blamed for Milk Bacteria

A Fraser Valley dairymen's spokesman today blamed lack of refrigeration facilities on CPR boats for deteriorating raw milk supplies shipped to Vancouver Island.

He was commenting on a warning from Don Wakelyn, Victoria and Esquimalt milk inspector, that the standard of Fraser Valley milk must be improved or its sale will be prohibited here.

The move followed tests which showed the bacteria count far exceeded the 500,000 maximum allowed by the B.C. Milk Act regulations.

The spokesman said the raw milk, which is pasteurized in Victoria before being sold, is of the "highest quality" when it leaves the mainland.

He thinks the solution will be to load the milk on the mainland at near freezing point.

He has a vague idea he knew something about radios and secured a job in a radio shop. Mr. Brown said his memory started to return when the manager of the shop asked him where he had learned the trade. He had worked with the navy and army in radio after the war.

"Before the day was over I had pretty well decided who I was," said Mr. Brown, who appeared still bewildered about the whole thing.

He called a John Street neighbor, Gordon Stinson, by telephone. Mr. Stinson recognized the voice and assured his caller he was Walter Richard Brown.

Walter Richard Brown... dazed for days.

'STILL A MYSTERY'

Police Close File On Amnesia Victim

The name of Walter Richard Brown was withdrawn from the RCMP files of "missing — believed dead," when the 28-year-old ex-Naval rating turned up at his Victoria home after a month-long siege of amnesia.

There was a joyful reunion at 643 John Street Tuesday night when Walter came home to greet his attractive wife, Christina, 24, and his 18-month-old daughter, Donna.

Mrs. Brown had spent 33 worried days since her husband had been reported missing and probably drowned in Saanich Inlet.

"It's still a big mystery to me. I seem to have lost count of everything from Sept. 23 to last Monday," said Mr. Brown, rubbing a scar on the left side of his forehead which his wife says was not there when she last saw him.

"It's nice to have Walter back," Mrs. Brown smiled.

MEMORY GONE

Mr. Brown doesn't know what happened after he set out from town to rent a boat for a fishing trip in the inlet on the afternoon of September 23.

He has not the slightest notion of how he got there, but the next thing he knew he was in Pentiction and had apparently worked for the CPR extra gang for several weeks before memory returned.

He believes the reason he ended up in the Okanagan was because he was stationed there during the war and liked the place.

While in Pentiction on September 25, Mr. Brown saw a story in a newspaper telling about a missing man named Walter Richard Brown from Victoria.

"I had a hunch I knew the man and kept the clipping," he said. He tried to get further information about the missing man from the library and the town's paper.

The name Walter Richard was familiar. That is what he spelled himself.

The former sailor said he got fed up with the railway work and quit.

MEMORY JARRED

He had a vague idea he knew something about radios and secured a job in a radio shop. Mr. Brown said his memory started to return when the manager of the shop asked him where he had learned the trade. He had worked with the navy and army in radio after the war.

"Before the day was over I had pretty well decided who I was," said Mr. Brown, who appeared still bewildered about the whole thing.

Man, Woman Guilty In Brutal Beating

Victoria voters gave the Liberals a handsome majority over Social Credit in the August federal election. Dr. Frank Fairey, MP, reminded party workers and friends at a farewell banquet last night.

Dr. Fairey polled 8,625 votes in the city to 6,354 for his Social Credit opponent, a majority of 2,271. The Liberals led in 82 out of Victoria's 110 polls.

"Most people thought Oak Bay put me in," Dr. Fairey remarked. "While I got wonderful support in that district, I actually had a bigger majority in Victoria."

"It would be well to bear these figures in mind for the coming by-election."

Dr. Fairey leaves for Ottawa next Thursday.

Sweep Winner Awaits Cash, Credits Wife's Luck Charm

Keeping faith in a good luck charm, Chinatown merchant, Wah Quan, 2410 Cook Street, was still awaiting official confirmation of his $137,500 Irish Sweepstakes fortune at press time today.

He told reporters Wednesday that since the big news reached him that morning he has been pleased, but "not so excited."

Admitting to a superstitious nature, the man who is known unofficially as the "mayor of Chinatown" attributes his good luck to a slip of paper his wife has carried since their marriage.

It is an old country tradition in a marriage for the bride to be given a paper on which are inscribed symbols meaning good luck. Mrs. Quan has preserved hers for the family for many years.

Buyer of "sweep" tickets for many years, Mr. Quan made his first win Wednesday when the favorite "Jupiter" won the Cambridgehire at Newmarket, England.

Only other city winner aside from the agent who sold Mr. Quan the ticket and begged anonymity, was Ralph Hussey, 2559 Estevan, an Eaton men's wear salesman.

He won a consolation prize of $100.

"My wife has it all spent," he says.

HERE FIVE YEARS

Jovanovic, who was near collapse in court last week and had to be supported by constables, has been in Canada for five years.

Both accused testified they were merely trying to get Bong to pay Miss Wright for house-keeping work she had done for him.

Testimony was that Jovanovic released Bong from his bonds after the Chinese had promised he would draw $1,000 from the bank on the following day.

Jovanovic testified that he understood Bong owed Miss Wright about $300. Miss Wright, however, said Bong only owed her several days' pay for work at the Garbally Road house, but added "we were after anything we could get."

CLAM AXE WIELDED

Both accused said that Bong picked up an axe when confronted by them, but that the Yugoslavian wrestled it from him.

Alex Brethour, defense counsel, asked for dismissal on the grounds the accused had only gone to the house for a lawful errand to get money owed to Miss Wright.

Magistrate Hall adjourned the case to give the probation officer opportunity to submit a report on Jovanovic.

City Polio Total Still Mounting

Polio patients continued to arrive at Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday, increasing totals for this year to 92 city cases and 110 for the whole of Vancouver Island.

Latest cases were a 20-year-old Duncan girl and a Victoria boy of six.

There has been a slight upsurge in the incidence of the disease with five cases reported since Tuesday. Previously there had been eight days without any positive cases and authorities were hopeful the danger season was passed.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—The deer season is set to end Nov. 30. What is the official estimate of the total number of deer shot and killed on Vancouver Island during the 1952 season?—A.H.

A.—The estimate of the kill on this island last year, compiled by biologists, was in the neighborhood of 7,000.

Q.—Have Great Britain and Spain ever contracted an alliance?—J.S.

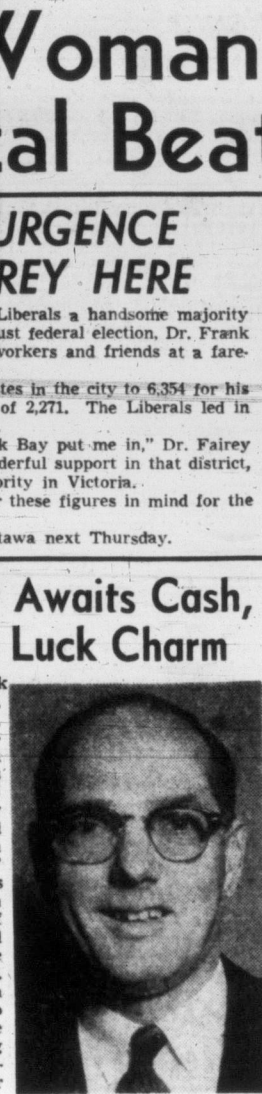

A.—Yes. In its section, "French Revolutionary Wars," the Encyclopaedia Britannica in the sub-section, "Campaigns in the Netherlands" says: "The year 1793 opened disastrously for the Republic... England, Holland, Austria, Prussia, Spain and Sardinia promptly formed the First Coalition."

Q.—What is the population of Dawson, Y.T.?—R.D.

A.—The census of 1951 reported it as 783. At the 1901 census, in the city proper, it was 9,142, but there were many scattered about the creeks of the region.

Tax Painless For Tipplers

One Victoria club is giving drinkers of hard liquor a break. It has lowered the price of its drinks so that the price of the drink, plus the 10 per cent sales tax, is no higher than it was in pre-tax days.

Here's how it works:

A drink of rye has cost 40 cents at this club for some time. The tax would bring the price up to 44 cents under normal circumstances.

But the proprietor, so that his patrons won't have to pay more, has cut the price of the drink to 36 cents. Then the four-cent tax is added.

Top Times Carrier-Salesmen Receive Awards

MEXICO CITY—AMAZING IN CONTRASTS

Splendor and Squalor Both 'Fabulous' to Canadian Visitors of over 3,000,000 population, have been handed to them.

We have seen a great deal of life of Mexico City already, and a great deal more is in store with two overnight trips inland to Acapulco on the west coast, and to the "silver city" of Taxco, and to Cuernavaca and Vistahermosa.

We are not just being shown the better side of this capital of the republic, 7,400 feet up in the mountains.

We are seeing what should, but does not appear to be, misery for the poor, the laboring peasant.

It is said that 42 per cent of the population is illiterate, which is difficult to believe when you check in to such ultra-modern hotels as Del Prado and Bamer, where the finest of accommodation and service is provided.

Your impression that such luxury would indicate Mexico is not nearly as backward as you have read soon disappears, after walking only a few short blocks from your splendid surroundings.

The odor of filth rising from acres of mud huts all over the huge city stops you in your tracks.

If you pass through the curtain for a closer look, you find as many as 14 and 16 people living in these adobe huts, crowded into a room not as big as your garage at home.

Sanitation facilities are crude, to put it mildly, and you think back to the tiled, sparkling bathroom, of the carpeted bed-sitting room provided you—a room for two 20 feet wide by 35 feet, with ceiling to floor drapes covering the outside wall which is almost entirely glass.

Most of the adobe dwellers are clothed in rags, and you soon feel the need for soap and water after getting close enough to them to try and make conversation.

Spanish not being a strong point, you make little headway but what you see tells you more than words.

Many of the people appear half-starved, and the thin, crooked legs of the dirty-nosed little kiddies clinging to the skirts of their mothers finally force you to retreat.

What is most amazing is that despite their poverty, they seem to be happy. Their smiles are warm and their chatter sounds friendly.

We came to the conclusion they just don't know anything better.

In all fairness to the leaders of the land, we learned later that efforts are being made to improve the lot of the peasant. It will take many years, though.

Playgrounds and recreation centres are being built and ultra-modern schools are appearing. Housing projects and large apartment blocks are also dotting the outskirts and the talk is that a "middle class" is growing where once Mexico had only two "classes"—the rich and the poor.

Robbery Aim Of Assault on Aged Chinese

A man and woman today were convicted of brutally beating a bound Chinese of 74 in the hope of forcing him to give them money.

A Yugoslav immigrant, Zivojin Jovanovic, 25, and Constance Hilda Wright, 42, were found guilty by Magistrate Henry Hall and remanded for sentence to Nov. 3.

Summing up, the magistrate said he was convinced both accused were involved in "severely and brutally" assaulting Bong Gong of 648 Garbally Road on the night of Oct. 15, with intent to rob him.

Evidence was that after the two entered the home of the Chinese, Jovanovic struck Bong several times and then tied his hands with rope. Miss Wright used the victim's own blood-stained pajama trousers to bind his legs.

Dr. Joseph W. Lennox told the court that Bong suffered a severely bruised face, wrist abrasions and a fractured rib on the right side.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Hey, There, Longfellow!
How About a Pickle?

By PENNY SAVER

I've been simply swamped with 'phone calls ever since I told you about that gift shop a few days ago, so if you're that interested in finding something novel for your gift-giving, or even for your own home... I think I should tell you more! There wasn't room in that first column to include even half of the things I saw. Soooooo... here we go again!

Here is something that particularly caught my fancy. And if you're the party-giving type I'm sure it will catch yours, too!

I'm thinking of a wooden dachshund doggie, with (naturally) a lo-o-o-o body, and a funny long tail that stick straight up. The tail is nearly as long as his body! He's made in fire-engine red or bright yellow with black features, and has the sauciest expression! All over his body are tiny holes for sticking toothpicks in, and on the ends of the picks you can put olives, pickles or any other kind of tidbit you can think of.

His tail has a use, too. You're supposed to loop pretzels on it! There's a verse pasted on our doggie that reads like this:

"My name is Longfellow
So pardon my rhyme
For pretzels and snacks
The grandest guy I'm."

Oh yes, mustn't forget the price... it's $1.98.

Then there are the "stay put" ash trays. Place one on the arm of your chesterfield or chair and it will stay right there until you move it. When I asked the sales girl what it is that holds the ash trays in place, she told me that it's those lead pellets that kiddies shoot in their toy guns... "B's" I think they're called. At any rate, they do the trick!

One of the trays has a luminous horse's head on the bottom that's great when the lights are out... and you're watching television. It costs $1.95. A set of ash tray and cigarette container costs $3.85.

There are wax candles which, instead of dripping as ordinary candles do, flare out in graceful shapes as they burn. In all sizes and colors, and round or square, they range in price from 75 cents to $2.50.

Then there were some... Gosh! you see? I've run out of space again!

It's Dangerous Dating
Girl Friend's Steady

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

There is nothing that will break up a friendship between two girls more quickly than a boy. How ought a girl handle this problem? One writes:

Hurlock

(Q) "About three weeks ago the boy who has been dating my best friend steadily for the past two years asked me to go out with him. Since they were not going steady I accepted. I also had a date with him the following evening. Then I went to my friend and told her about it. I expected it to be a slight shock but it seems her parents took it harder than she did. I suggested that this should not ruin our friendship and this was agreed. When I see her now, and this is quite seldom, I find it hard to strike up a conversation and her mother is even worse toward me. I thought I would be doing them a favor by telling them myself about going out with this boy but it didn't work that way. I don't want to lose this girl as a friend because we have been the closest of friends throughout our 12 years of school. What shall I do?"

(A) I am afraid there is not very much you can do now. The damage is already done and I doubt if anything you did would be adequate to repair it. You have shown this girl and her mother the impression that you are not a loyal friend and it will be hard to change that.

Even if the boy was not going steady with your friend, you say he has been dating her steadily for two years. If he wanted to go out with another girl it certainly should not have been you. And to go out with him two evenings in succession would lead your friend to believe that this boy was infatuated with you. Naturally she would resent this and her parents would also.

A girl must often choose between the friendship of a girl and having dates with a certain boy. You knew that your best friend regarded this boy as her steady, or at least a very good friend. It should then have been a case of "hands off" for you. Surely you could have dates with other boys and not run the risk of losing your best friend by doing something almost any girl would resent.

Elizabeth Hurlock is one of the nation's best psychologists, and she will gladly help you with personal problems.

'Myrt' Okell Retires From Drill Team

Mrs. Myrtle Okell, who has been a member of Victoria Girls' Drill Team since 1939, retired officially last evening at a reception held in her honor at Business and Professional Women's Clubroom. About 75 members of the team and of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team Alumni were present.

Capt. Norman Foster, director, outlined its history from the first appearance 15 years ago, and presented an orchid corsage to the guest of honor. William Mooney, drill team advisor, presented her with an end table from the council and team. Mrs. Elsie Watson, chairman, and Mrs. Helen Tregellas spoke on behalf of the alumni, and Miss Lorna Forsyth, a senior officer, spoke on behalf of the team.

Capt. Foster made Mrs. Okell an honorary life member. She has been a member of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team longer than any other girl.

It is customary for girls to retire when they marry, but as "Myrt" was so invaluable to the team for training new members and assisting Capt. Foster in organizing drills, she was asked to continue as assistant director.

A farewell cake centred the head table and there were arrangements of chrysanthemums throughout the room.

Proceeds Will Help Furnish Room in Home

A sum of $165 was realized at recent bazaar held by Victoria Lions' Club Auxiliary, and will be used to help furnish a room in the new Victoria Nursing Home.

Alderman Margaret Christie opened the affair and guests were welcomed by auxiliary president, Mrs. George Hinch.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Gerald Stelek, Mrs. P. V. Richardson, Mrs. Reid, matron at Victoria Nursing Home, and Mrs. J. E. Fuller. Girls of Victoria May Queen court assisted in serving tea. Treasurers were Mrs. R. J. Panisset and Mrs. P. W. Gilson.

WBA Banquet

Six pioneers, all over 80 years of age, were honored at the head table with president, Mrs. Jean Bowden, when Women's Benefit Association, Review No. 1, held its annual banquet in Terry's Rose Room. Each was presented with a corsage of pale mauve chrysanthemums, the pioneer color. Mrs. Bowden received red and white carnations, review colors.

Names of the pioneers are Mrs. S. Adams, Mrs. J. Ricketts, Mrs. J. Winters, Mrs. S. Keefe, Mrs. M. Ackerman and Mrs. S. McNeil, who was unable to attend because of illness.

A large cake centred the table with low bowls of chrysanthemums. After the banquet court whist was played.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ball Married in First Baptist

A strapless lace bodice topped the gown of filmy net over tulle, worn last evening by Shirley Bernice Coles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Coles, 441 Cook Street, when she entered First Baptist Church to become the bride of Gerald Harvey Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ball, 35 Boyd Street.

A dainty lace bolero covered her shoulders and she wore long lace gloves to match. From a beaded tiara misted her finger-tips veil of embroidered net and she carried a cascading bouquet of pink rapture roses and white carnations.

Standard baskets of white and yellow chrysanthemums with fern decorated the church which was candlelit for the ceremony performed by Rev. G. R. Easter.

Oliver Stout played wedding music and during signing of the register, Mrs. Ronald Coles sang "A Wedding Prayer." The bride's father gave her in marriage.

Miss Doreen Coles, maid of honor, and Miss Leslie Ball, bridesmaid, were gownned alike in net over tulle, in orchid and pink respectively. They wore brocaded boleros. Their headresses were fashioned of veiling and flowers and they carried sprays of chrysanthemums.

Best man was Ronald Mace. Guests were ushered to the bridesmaids, by Ronald Coles and Bill Abbott.

Loughheed's Banquet Hall was scene of the reception, where guests were received by Mrs. Coles and Mrs. Ball. The bride's table was covered with a cloth of Brussels net appliqued in floral pattern and centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Fat knees give many women mild feminine fits. Sometimes women exaggerate this condition, forgetting that dimples are prettier than rock piles. However, knees can certainly be too fat. If this is not a question of overweight it is rather difficult to remedy but there is hope!

Do this exercise. Lie on your floor on your abdomen and lean on your elbows. You can even read while you do this exercise.

"Coach says we don't need a pep talk—we had Brex for breakfast!"

Brex is the fast-cooking, delicious whole-grain cereal that contains extra wheat germ—an important source of strength-giving vitamins and minerals!

Bend the left knee, trying to spank yourself with the left foot. As you lower the left leg, bend the right, trying to spank yourself with your right toe. Continue. One leg bends as the other straightens and make a real effort to give yourself a paddling.

You should also try massage, kneading the fat over the knees between your fingers and the heel of your hand.

Since the shorter skirts force us to think a bit more about the appearance of our legs, remember that no leg can look lovely, no matter what its contour, if it is poorly groomed. We have become so accustomed to the use of grooming aids to remove superfluous hair, that a hairy-legged woman does not look attractive to us. It is so easy, with the depilatories available, to remove the hair once or twice a week or every 10 days, or whatever is necessary.

Rough, dry, scaly skin on the legs is also unattractive. This can come from vitamin deficiency.

Those small daily attentions add up to a big total in physical charm and self-confidence and are essential to that indefinable well-groomed and dainty feminine look. It is worth a little time.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Take Steps Toward Lovely Legs," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 13 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Crunchy, hot rolls with novel butter pats compliment griddle cakes and sausages for brunch, the two-in-one meal. Add whole fruits or juice and beverage and your brunch sounds the keynote for an easy, relaxing week-end.

Make It Brunch for the Week-End

"Give me five minutes more, only five minutes more" — to sleep, that is! And before you know it, the clock has struck noon. Wander down to the kitchen and you'll find mother busily preparing brunch, that pleasant midday meal combining breakfast and lunch, made to order for all you sleepy-heads. Especially welcome for that week-end gathering of the clan who've come "home" to enjoy your informal, relaxing hospitality. You'll make brunch the happiest time ever for yourself and your guests when you turn out piping hot foods before their very eyes. No matter where you do it, in the kitchen or at the table, the fragrant aroma of puffy griddle cakes, piled high with butter in between, tease and tempt. No need to call anybody to this meal—they'll be led in by the nose.

a griddle cake companion would be eggs, done creamy de luxe style.

Now to round out your pleasant two-in-one meal, for it must be substantial enough to break the extra long fast and also prepare the clan for the rigors of the afternoon. Include crusty, enriched rolls, with a sprinkling of poppy seeds on top, give them the brunch look. Then bring on the steaming coffee for the adults and hot chocolate for the children.

GRIDDLE CAKES

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, or 2½ cups sifted pastry flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ table-spoons sugar, 2 eggs, beaten, 1½ cups milk, 4 tablespoons melted butter.

Put griddle on to preheat. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Add sugar. To eggs, add milk and melted butter. Pour into dry ingredients all at once. Combine gently using rotary beater, only until smooth. Test griddle iron (or heavy iron frying pan) by dropping water on the surface. If water breaks into small beads and evaporates quickly, the iron is hot enough. Drop batter from tablespoon onto hot griddle and spread lightly with spoon into 4-inch circles. Cook on one side until top is puffed and full of bubbles. Turn and cook on the other side. Keep a low heat under the griddle. Serve at once with butter and syrup. (Makes 14 griddle cakes.)

Churchill Wins Confidence Vote On Trieste Move

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's policy on the Trieste dispute was endorsed by the House of Commons Wednesday night by a government majority of 28 votes.

Foreign Secretary Eden led the day-long debate which ended when the Socialists called a vote to prolong discussions. Government forces defeated this 296 to 268.

Eden, defending the Anglo-American decision to withdraw troops from Trieste's zone "A" and turn it over to Italy, said the government wants to find a solution to Trieste within the next few months.

"We know that until we do we can make no effective security arrangements at this vital point in Western defense," he said.

Hugh Dalton, summing up for the long roster of Socialist speakers, accused the government of having "grossly blundered" in allowing the Yugoslav-Italian dispute to flare up. The Conservatives "bitterly estranged our friends and completely bewildered others," he added.

The vote was called not on a specific motion on Trieste but on a technical procedural matter. The Socialists proposed the House adjourn before passing on to the next item, meaning the Trieste debate would have to continue.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government today announced a new one-year trade agreement with Italy under which the Soviet Union will export grain, oil products, metals and other goods. Italy will send Russia oranges, lemons, fabrics, machinery and a number of small ships.

BCHIS 'Surplus' Claim Wrong, Says B.C. Labor Official

VANCOUVER (CP)—A top labor official has disputed claims by the Social Credit government that it has, for the first time, put the B.C. Hospital Insurance Scheme on a sound footing.

George Home, secretary of the B.C. Labor Federation, said before the Vancouver Labor Council Tuesday night that the claim was not borne out by facts and figures.

CASH BALANCES CUT

BCHIS cash balances had been reduced by $4,426,000 since Social Credit took office, he said. At the last session of the legislature, Health Minister Eric Martin said the Social Credit administration "had done the impossible by putting BCHIS on its feet."

Mr. Home said "in the financial year ending in March 1952, BCHIS had a surplus of $46,321."

McGUGAN TOMATO TARGET

Archie McGugan, young LPP candidate in Victoria in the 1953 provincial election, had to be nimble to duck flying tomatoes at a party rally at the University of B.C. this week.

Mr. McGugan, the party's campus spokesman, side-stepped a barrage of vegetables and went on to finish his speech.

Some of the students attending the meeting asked the tomato chucker to leave before submitting the speaker to a barrage of questions attacking his pro-Communist speech.

Glen Lake Resident For 20 Years Dies

A retired funeral director from Broadview, Sask., William John Silman, died in hospital Tuesday.

Born in England, he had resided at Glen Lake for the last 20 years.

Surviving are his widow, a son, Albert Williams, at Glen Lake, and five grandchildren. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by McCall Bros.

Dr. Robinson, Alberta Labor Minister, Dead

EDMONTON (CP)—Dr. J. L. Robinson, minister of industries and labor in the Alberta government, died of a heart attack early today. He was 63.

One of the original members of the Social Credit government in Alberta, he was elected to the legislature in 1935 for Medicine Hat constituency and was appointed to the cabinet post in May, 1948.

NOT IN BALANCE

"This money left over by the previous government does not show in this year's cash balance," Mr. Home said. "Contrary to claims, it seems that the Social Credit administration is $4,000,000 down."

Mr. Home also charged that the government was trying to load the cost of the insurance scheme onto wage-earners.

Two Vancouver Airmen Killed In CF-100 Crash

It said the pilot was FO Edmund Andrew Charles, 23, and the navigator was FO Gerry Robert Ormiston, 22.

The pilot's body was found near the wreckage in bushland 20 miles southwest of here. The body of the navigator was recovered in the general area of the crash after an all-day search.

Air force officials said Charles was born in Vancouver, went to school there, and that his next-of-kin is a brother in Lloydminster, Sask.

Ormiston was born in Winnipeg. His parents live in Vancouver, air force spokesmen said.

The ground parties pushed through the bush to the wrecked plane Wednesday morning.

The jet was part of an all-weather operation training unit flying a night exercise. Flying on instruments, it was under observation by radar ground observers.

Air force officials said they had not yet determined the cause of the crash.

New School Money By-Law Necessary, Says Inspector

Reasons for the $3,410,700 school money by-law to be submitted to Greater Victoria rate-payers in December were outlined Wednesday by John Gough, senior municipal inspector of schools, to the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Victoria Curling Rink.

Mr. Gough described the by-law as "absolutely necessary."

"Either we provide the proper schools or the children will not get the proper education," he summarized.

He pointed to the 67 per cent increase in school enrolment since 1946, and described present overcrowded conditions.

He told of classes being conducted in school basements and in divided auditoriums. He said that because of crowded conditions some children had to attend schools a considerable distance from their homes.

While the school board was anxious to establish more kindergarten classes in this area, he said, without more schools it appeared likely kindergartens now established would have to be abandoned to make room for regular classes.

LIONS CLUB PRESENTATION

Mme. Fahey's 'Bride Ship' At Esquimalt Nov. 13, 14

A page from the romantic history of Esquimalt will appear shortly on a local stage. A Victorian is author and the cast entirely local.

The Old Charming Inn

It's just you and me from One to Three... and you can count on lots of memory times... Victoria's "Better Half" has a guest each afternoon from the 1340 spot on her radio. CKDA's Program Director, and Victoria's top radio personality is heard daily on the Ed Farey Show, from one to three over Victoria's most listened-to station, CKDA.

will be presented by the Esquimalt Lions Club at the Esquimalt High School auditorium Nov. 13 and 14.

Written and directed by Madame Lugin Fahey, it will present Stan Martin and Mimi Bavin in male and female leads. Mr. Martin is well known for his appearance on the radio show, "Singing Stars of Tomorrow," while Miss Bavin was a Horace Heidt audition winner here.

The story is based on an Esquimalt history. The Bride Ship Tynemouth, arrived here from Britain in 1862, crammed with wives for Island settlers. The tale concerns a girl chosen by a dead uncle's will to wed an unknown cousin. All proceeds from the show will help finance moving of the Esquimalt Scout Hall to a new lot.

"I'm making hay for a rainy day!"

...and YOU?

This comical-looking fellow is a Pika. He's a distant cousin of the familiar bunny—but a lot smarter. It's pretty grim when winter blizzards are blowing on the Rocky Mountain plateaus where Pika lives. But he's equal to it. Every fall, he gathers in a harvest of hay and herbs to keep his family in groceries when things get tough.

People should be as smart as pikas. You never know when some extra savings could come in handy. Might be an emergency, or perhaps you'd like to have some money to enjoy your old age. In the meantime, you can be investing in our growing country.

More than a million Canadians are looking ahead right now with Canada Savings Bonds. You can do the same, if you start now to pile up as many as you can manage. You can get Canada Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work—or by instalments through your bank or investment dealer. They're always worth their full face value in cash... pay some mighty interesting interest, as well. They're really worth collecting!

Hospitals Must Cut Costs, BCHIS Warns Administrators

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 36th annual convention of the B.C. Hospitals' Association has been cautioned to check rising costs of hospital administration by including "only those expenditures which are necessary" in estimates for the coming year.

The advice was given Tuesday by W. J. Lyle, manager of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, who informed the 300 hospital administrators that estimate forms for 1954 are now available for "careful consideration."

He listed three main reasons for a 100 per cent increase in hospital costs since 1948:

1. Staff salary increases of 127 per cent, $12,000,000.
2. Marked increase in staff numbers due to the application of the 40-hour week and greater public use of hospitals.
3. Substantial increase of patients admitted to hospital, including an increase in the time of confinement.

B.C. High School Classes Get Kits For Paper Making

B.C. high school students will soon be making paper in their own classrooms.

This is being made possible through a gift of paper-making kits to about 200 high schools in the province by B.C.'s pulp and paper industry.

It is considered the largest individual educational project ever undertaken by an industry in Canada.

Greek King, Queen Arrive at New York

NEW YORK (UP)—A king and his queen arrived Wednesday "to thank the American people for the help they have given us both economically and morally."

Castellani Whips Laurent

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rocky Castellani, a punching windmill when he turned on the power, smashed out an unanimous decision Wednesday night over game Mickey Laurent of France. Castellani weighed 158 and Laurent 158 1/2.

The Cleveland fighter drew blood from Laurent's nose in the first round and pounded him savagely with hooks to the body and head throughout the fight.

A crowd of 4,686 paid $9,366 to watch the nationally-televised bout in Cleveland Arena.

Several Freedom Bands Harrying Reds in East Germany Paper Says

BERLIN (UP)—Several bands of anti-Communist partisans have launched a widespread underground resistance movement in the Soviet zone of Germany, the newspaper of the U.S. high commission said Wednesday.

The bands are staging bold night attacks on Soviet army and Communist police barracks and installations, the newspaper Meue Zeitung reported.

Only Tuesday a special report by the U.S. high commission said the Communist regime of East Germany was living on borrowed time unless it could stamp out resistance to Communism among the people of East Germany.

Even the Reds have acknowledged that at least one band of partisans—a tough group of Czechs—clashed with Communist police deep in the Soviet zone at Cottbus, killing four.

But today the Neue Zeitung said not one but several partisan bands were active, hiding out in forests by day and striking by night. The concentrations of anti-Communism were reported the heaviest in Saxony and Thuringia.

The report indicated the resistance movement has been growing ever since the June 17 uprising that unleashed demonstrations against the Communist government throughout East Germany.

Most of the partisan groups are armed with machine guns and pistols captured in attacks on East German police units, the newspaper said.

The Neue Zeitung identified the leader of one partisan band in Saxony as the former Russian commandant of the Soviet air base at Gersenhain, near Leipzig.

It said Red army soldiers who deserted from a Soviet munitions dump near Leipzig were fighting with other bands.

Bevan Loses Bid Against Deputy Leader Morrison

LONDON (Reuters)—Leftist Aneurin Bevan's two-year struggle to wrest control of the Labor party from its moderate leadership has been slapped down once again, it was disclosed Wednesday night.

The fiery Welshman was defeated by a crushing vote of 181 to 76 in a straight fight with moderate Herbert Morrison for the deputy leadership of the party's 295 members of Parliament.

The vote served as a hammer-blow to Bevan's leftist camp which regards him as the future party leader and ultimately as a Labor prime minister.

No effort has been made yet to challenge party leader Clement Attlee. He was re-elected Labor's parliamentary chief without opposition. The poll was taken last week.

Train Employees or Lose Them UBCM Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—A leading Canadian economist Wednesday urged British Columbia's top municipal authorities to institute training programs for their employees.

Speaking before more than 300 delegates attending opening sessions of the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention here, Professor Earle MacPhee said elected municipal officers must take more interest in training their administrators or lose them to industry.

"Whether or not they change to industry," said the director of the University of British Columbia's school of commerce, "depends largely on the interest you show in their training program."

Prof. MacPhee said business and industry are offering wages to university graduates which would have been considered "fantastic" five years ago.

But the graduates wanted more, he added. They wanted to know how far they can go in their chosen field and, in answer, industry was offering training programs to advance them further in their careers.

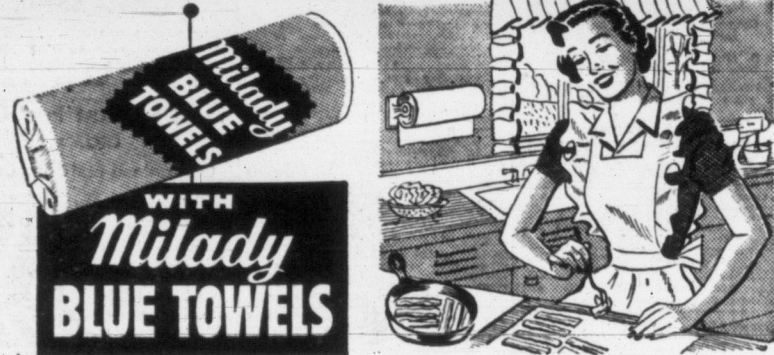

The delegates, representing 104 cities, districts and villages in B.C. with a combined population of almost 1,000,000, were welcomed to Vancouver by Mayor Fred Hume.

The newly-incorporated towns of Sidney on Vancouver Island and Warfield in the interior Kootenay district were welcomed by UBCM president Robert E. Sand.

Cool Thief Gets $10,000 From B of M

TORONTO (CP)—Police were on the lookout today for a short, stocky man who held up a downtown branch of the Bank of Montreal Wednesday and made a clean getaway with $10,000 in a paper bag.

Police said they had a "fairly good" description of the gunman but said he slipped through their fingers by walking across an intersection and ducking into a department store at Queen and Yonge Streets, a few yards from the bank.

Although a hundred officers and store detectives guarded the store doors, the bandit is believed to have left the building by mingling with shoppers.

Verdict Soon in B.C. Convict's Trial for Murder

CORNWALL, Ont. (BUP)—The trial of Henri Seguin, charged with the Aug. 16, 1952, murder of Leonard Hurd, a prominent Maxwell, Ont., businessman, was expected to end here this week after the crown completed its case yesterday.

Hurd's bullet-riddled body was found in one of his taxi cabs, and police said Seguin's army identification papers were also found in the car.

Hurd's widow testified yesterday that her husband was carrying a large sum of money the night he was shot. His pockets were empty when the body was found.

Seguin is serving a 20-year prison term for armed robbery in British Columbia.

Court Injunction Granted to Halt Interior IWA Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—A court order to halt a woodworkers strike in the northern B.C. interior has been obtained in Supreme Court here by Pacific Western Planing Mill, Ltd., Quesnel.

Mr. Justice J. M. Coady granted an interim injunction to the company restraining Local 1-424, International Woodworkers of America, CIO-CCL, from counselling their employees to strike and from picketing the plant.

Best 'House of Tomorrow' Worth $10,000 in Prizes

MONTREAL (BUP)—A total of $10,000 in prizes waited today for a Canadian or European who can design the best "Canadian house of tomorrow" for a suburban family with three children under 15 and a car.

Plans for the competition were announced last night by Professor John Bland, a McGill University architectural expert, and Samuel Bronfman, president of Calvert Distilling Co.

Bland said the contest would be open to anyone in Canada and all European countries outside the Iron Curtain. He said the United States was excluded because Canadian home architecture already is influenced by American home-building.

The winner will pick up $5,000 and the "Calvert House international award." A Canadian award and $2,500 will go to the best Canadian entry and a European award and $2,500 to the person who provides the best design from Europe.

Butler did not specify the type of goods to be affected by the new liberalization measures. The level of British free trade in imports up to now has been 38 per cent.

PARIS (Reuters)—R. A. Butler, British treasury chief, announced today that Britain will abolish 75 per cent of her import barriers on European goods this year "because we want to be good Europeans."

Anti-Reds Murder Four Prisoners

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The Indian chairman of the neutral nations' repatriation commission announced Wednesday that four North Korean and Chinese prisoners had been murdered by fellow inmates in neutral zone camps.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya's announcement strengthened Red charges that fanatical anti-Communist agents were at work among the 22,000 Chinese and North Koreans who do not want to return home and were responsible for the breakdown in explanation talks.

U.S. Army Reveals Horror of Red 'Murder and Torture' in Korea

By CHARLES W. CORDREY
WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. army laid before the world Wednesday night a blood-chilling indictment accusing the Communists in Korea of inflicting diabolical "torture and murder" on 29,815 prisoners, including 6,113 Americans.

It also disclosed that 34 war crimes cases were ready for trial last June, but then the armistice was signed and the perpetrators had to be released in the prisoner exchange.

The army documented its charges with 87 pages of case histories and sickening pictures of Red bestiality. For sheer horror, some of them ranked with the infamous Nazi atrocities of World War II.

Release of the report all but snuffed out any remaining hope for the 7,955 U.S. servicemen listed as missing in action who did not come back in the prisoner exchange.

Chances were slim that they survived such "murderous barbarism" as the Taejon massacre in which 5,000 to 7,000 persons were slaughtered, the Suchon jail in which the Reds burned 280 Koreans alive, and the "diabolical" Yong-chong mass murder in which 500 South Korean prisoners were shot.

EQUALS NANKING

The army said Taejon "will be recorded in the annals of history along with the rape of Nanking, the Warsaw ghetto and other similar mass executions."

In addition to the 6,113 Americans listed as "probable victims of war crime atrocities," the report mentioned 5,509 South Korean and other United Nations civilians and 839 "unknown" victims.

The bodies of 511 Americans have been recovered. Typical examples of the way they met death are displayed in 28 ghastly photographs included in the report.

One picture shows five Americans shot and bayoneted and lying beneath a Communist bulletin board denouncing United Nations cruelty.

TUC Condemns Guiana's Jagan

LONDON (Reuters)—The general council of the Trades Union Congress Wednesday accused ministers of British Guiana's extreme-left People's Progressive party of "wanton abuse" of the people's trust.

Both Dr. Cheddi Jagan, deposed premier, and L. F. S. Burnham, former minister of education, appeared before the TUC Tuesday. They denied there was any "Communist plot" in the South American colony to justify Britain's recent action in suspending the constitution and sending warships and troops there.

A statement by the council Wednesday night said the dismissed ministers had maintained contacts with the Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions rather than with the non-Communist International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

WILLIAM CRAIG

ARTHUR PARTRIDGE

Two Winners Share $250 Contest Prize

After seven weeks without a winner, two Times crossworders came up with correct answers to the puzzle this week. They are Arthur Partridge, 1269 St. Patrick, and William Craig, 400 Boleskine.

As both are regular subscribers to The Times they share the total prize of $250 and get $125 each.

More than 9,000 entries were submitted as the prize money got higher. Biggest stickler for the unsuccessful ones was the word "seeks," which the crossword rules was the best word for "a man with criminal tendencies sometimes — to lead an honest life." He says "seems," which many people used, would be better applied to a man who actually was leading a life of crime. Complete answer to the puzzle is on page 29.

Both winners were surprised to learn that they had solved the puzzle.

'GO IT ALONE' PAPERS ADVISE SIR WINSTON

LONDON (AP)—Two leading Conservative newspapers urged Prime Minister Churchill today to "go it alone" in a meeting with Soviet Premier Malenkov if he can't persuade President Eisenhower to join him.

They expressed understanding of American distrust of the Russians but said Churchill's idea of holding informal East-West talks on world issues at the highest level was the only way to find out what is on the Russian leader's mind.

The Daily Telegraph said it readily conceded President Eisenhower would not join a meeting as Churchill has in Britain, but added: "The whole point is: Look where you will, nothing except the prime minister's idea has even the faintest chance of getting anywhere."

The report, drawn from the testimony of 216 survivors and buttressed by grisly photographs, listed 29,815 persons as probable victims—6,113 Americans, 5,509 Allied troops, 17,354 Korean civilians and 839 unidentified. Officials said the total may rise as other reports of Red brutality are investigated.

Photos Prove Bestial Torture Of UN Prisoners

By JOHN W. FINNEY

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States went before the bar of world opinion today with documented charges that the Communists in Korea murdered thousands of Allied and American troops in atrocities rivaling the savagery of Dachau and Buchenwald.

In an 87-page White Paper made public last night, the army told how prisoners were hung up by their hands and set afire, how they were stabbed to death with bamboo spears, how they were dismembered, emasculated, or bludgeoned.

The report, drawn from the testimony of 216 survivors and buttressed by grisly photographs, listed 29,815 persons as probable victims—6,113 Americans, 5,509 Allied troops, 17,354 Korean civilians and 839 unidentified. Officials said the total may rise as other reports of Red brutality are investigated.

The Voice of America beamed broadcasts around the globe in an effort to burn the atrocity story into the minds of men everywhere. Congressmen urged the administration to lay the charges before the United Nations as it did in the case of Communist germ-warfare charges.

The army report was drawn up in the form of a legal indictment. But the accused Communists will never be brought to trial as war criminals even though 250 of them fell into Allied hands.

Thirty-four war crimes cases ready to go to trial last June were dropped when the defendant-prisoners were ordered released in the armistice exchange so that Allied POWs would not be held by the Reds for alleged crimes.

Any remaining hope for 7,955 American servicemen listed as missing was wiped out by the evidence cited in the report. If they were not the victims of atrocities, it was presumed they were among thousands of Allied troops who died in death marches or as a result of disease or starvation.

Explosion Fireworks Wreck Duncan Store; $2,000 Loss By JOHN TAYLOR

DUNCAN—Well over $2,000 damage was done to a grocery store belonging to Low Buck here this morning when fireworks on sale in his store suddenly caught light and destroyed most of the interior of the store.

It is not known what ignited the fireworks on show in the window. The fire spread to another batch at the rear of the store, destroying about $500 worth.

People watching the blaze had to take cover when rockets zipped out of the store in all directions on Craig Street where the store is situated. Many people had to duck behind cars to avoid being hit.

The whole glass frontage of the store collapsed as fireworks exploded into the street, and inside the store fruit, vegetables and other articles were burnt to cinders.

At the time of the fire Mr. Buck was in Victoria and his son, Low Sing, was in charge. He said that he did not know what ignited the fireworks and was badly shaken after the experience. A few people in the store at the time of the blaze managed to get out without being harmed.

Believed Dead

Finding of blood-stained underclothing near a bridge and two bloody shirts in a box at a railroad depot, led police to believe that 15-year-old Evelyn Hartley, missing at La Crosse, Wis., is dead. Police believe she was dragged from a home where she was baby sitting last Saturday night.

U.S. Stalls UN Action On Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States today put the brake on any speedy move to rebuke Israel for recent border killings in Israel and to boost the number of UN watchdogs in troubled Palestine.

The U.S. spokesman said British views on a resolution—views of Israel and the Arab states—expressed formally in the council before taking specific action.

The rebuke of Israel was intended to blame her for a raid on the Jordan village of Kibya Oct. 14-15 in which a UN report said 53 Arabs were killed.

Chief Israeli delegate Abba Eban has served notice he intends to cover the whole Middle East security problem before the council.

'Brain-Washing' By Force Hinted At Panmunjom

'Surprise' in Store For Demonstrators

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Friday (UP)—The five-member neutral nations repatriation team may push its way into the seething anti-Communist prisoner compounds today in a final, desperate bid to resume the "counter-brain-washing" of anti-Communist Chinese and Koreans.

Commission Chairman Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya promised newsmen he would give them "a surprise" today.

Informed quarters said the "surprise" may be the entry of the neutral commission inside the compounds.

If the commission attempts the bold step, Red-hating Chinese and North Koreans almost certainly will demonstrate wildly against Czech and Polish members of the commission.

Witness Recall The neutral commission also announced it intends to call back to the Indian camp repatriates to serve as witnesses in an investigation of charges anti-Communists murdered men who decided they wanted to return to their Red homelands.

If these witnesses appear near the touchy North Korean and Chinese anti-Reds trouble will undoubtedly follow. Indian guards may be forced to shoot or use tear gas to maintain order.

Tension was heightened in the camps when a South Korean prisoner crawled out of a barbed-wire enclosed compound under cover of darkness Wednesday to denounce Communism. It was believed this may indicate the Reds are employing terrorist tactics to keep Allied PWs from returning home.

Funeral Homes Charge Denied VANCOUVER (CP)—Charles E. Atchison, a leading British Columbia funeral director, today denied charges made at the recent Social Credit convention that B.C. funeral homes are of "substandard quality."

The denial was made in a letter to Health Minister, Eric Martin.

A resolution adopted by the B.C. Social Credit League convention charged "B.C. is lacking in adequately-trained men and the conditions are prevalent... which make funeral homes in B.C. of substandard quality and the very poorest service is being rendered the public."

Mr. Atchison, twice president of the B.C. Funeral Directors and Embalmers Association, and for many years connected with the funeral profession, "most emphatically" denied the allegation as "absolutely untrue."

He also said information given to the convention delegates "by some person or persons, was given by those who were totally ignorant of what they were talking about, or were deliberately stating an untruth."

Trans-Pacific Plane 2 Minutes From Field

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Twenty persons, including the brilliant young American pianist William Kapell, perished today when a British Commonwealth Pacific airliner crashed and burned in fogbound hills 25 miles south of San Francisco near the end of a trans-Pacific flight.

The four-engine DC-6, inbound from Australia and Honolulu, struck a mountain-side two minutes before it was to have landed at San Francisco's international airport.

ALL PERISH The crew of a helicopter which flew low over the flames-swept wreckage, said all aboard perished.

The plane carried 11 passengers and a crew of nine. Six of the passengers were Australians, two were English and one was "believed to be a Swedish sea captain."

First reports said all passengers had boarded the plane in Sydney, Australia. But in Honolulu it was reported that an unidentified elderly woman boarded there. She was en route to Vancouver.

The airline is operated jointly by Australia and New Zealand. A U.S. coast guard helicopter crew said the plane hit at an altitude of 1,500 feet and disintegrated among huge redwood trees.

NOTED PIANIST Kapell, 31, was returning from his latest Australian tour. Born in New York, Kapell attended the Philadelphia Conservatory of Music and the Juilliard School of Music in New York.

He made concert tours throughout the United States, Australia and South America. (Mr. Kapell played in Victoria in 1947 and 1948.)

An airline official in Honolulu said Kapell almost stayed over in Honolulu but decided at the last minute to continue his journey.

John MacKinnon, 20, was charged with obstructing and assaulting a police constable and Peter Mitchell, 20, and Robert Gregerich, 20, with obstructing.

The fracas started when students from other faculties "crashed" the annual smoker of the UBC Engineering Undergraduates Society.

TRAGEDY AND TRIUMPH

Russians Deliberately Let Warsaw Poles Die

Encouraged Underground Attack But Denied Aid; Lied to Cover Up

(This is another installment of Volume VI of the war memoirs of Winston Churchill, Britain's Prime Minister. Other installments will be carried daily.)

By WINSTON S. CHURCHILL The Russian summer offensive (in 1944) brought their armies in late July to the river Vistula. All reports indicated that in the very near future Poland would be in Russian hands.

The leaders of the Polish Underground Army, which owed allegiance to the London government, had now to decide when to raise a general insurrection against the Germans, in order to speed the liberation of their country and prevent their fighting a series of bitter defensive actions on Polish territory and particularly in Warsaw itself. The Polish commander, General Bor Komorowski, and his civilian adviser were authorized by the Polish government in London to proclaim a general insurrection whenever they deemed fit. The moment indeed seemed opportune. On July 20 came the news of the plot against Hitler, followed swiftly by the Allied break-out from the Normandy beachhead. About July 22 the Poles intercepted wireless messages from the German Fourth Panzer Army ordering a general withdrawal to the west of the Vistula. The Russians crossed the river on the same day, and their tanks pushed forward in the direction of Warsaw. These seemed little doubt that a general collapse was at hand.

Decides Time Ripe General Bor therefore decided to stage a major uprising and liberate the city. He had about forty thousand men, with reserves of food and ammunition for seven to ten days' fighting. The sound of Russian guns across the Vistula could now be heard. The Soviet Air Force began bombing the Germans in Warsaw from recently captured airfields near the capital, of which the closest was only twenty minutes' flight away. At the same time a Communist committee of national liberation had been formed in eastern Poland, and the Russians announced that liberated territory would be placed under their control. Soviet broadcasting stations had for a considerable time been urging the Polish population to drop all caution and start a general revolt against the Germans. On July 29, three days before the rising began, the Moscow radio station broadcast an appeal from the Polish Communists to the people of Warsaw, saying that the guns of liberation were now within hearing, and calling upon them as in 1939 to join battle with the Germans, this time for decisive action.

Soviets Expected On the evening of July 31 the Underground command in Warsaw got news that Soviet tanks had broken into the German defenses east of the city. The German military wireless announced: "Today the Russians started a general attack on Warsaw from the southeast." Russian troops were now at points less than ten miles away. In the capital itself the Polish Underground command ordered a general insurrection at 5 p.m. on the following day. General Bor has himself described what happened:

At exactly five o'clock thousands of windows flashed as they were flung open. From all sides a hail of bullets struck passing Germans, riddling their buildings and their marching formations. In the twinkling of an eye the remaining civilians disappeared from the streets. From the entrances of houses our men streamed out and rushed to the attack. In fifteen minutes an entire city of a million inhabitants was engulfed in the fight. Every kind of traffic ceased. As a big communications centre, where roads from north, south, east and west converged, in the immediate rear of the German front, Warsaw ceased to exist. The battle for the city was on.

Red Radio Silent The news reached London next day, and we anxiously awaited for more. The Soviet radio was silent and Russian air activity ceased. On August 4 the Germans started to attack from strong-points which they held throughout the city and suburbs. The Polish government in London told us of the agonizing urgency of sending in supplies by air. The insurgents were now opposed by five hastily concentrated German divisions.

I accordingly telegraphed to Stalin. Prime Minister to Marshal Stalin, August 4, 1944. "At urgent request of Polish Underground Army, we are dropping, subject to weather, about sixty tons of equipment and ammunition into the southwest quarter of Warsaw, where it is said a Polish revolt against the Germans is in fierce struggle. They also say that they appeal for Russian aid, which seems to be very near. They are being attacked by one and a half German divisions. This may be of help to your (Continued on Page 6)

New Union Proposal Going to BCE Chiefs

Compromise May Avert Strike Involving
1,100 Workers, Cutting Industrial Power

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new union proposal for settling the threatened strike of electric power workers on the lower British Columbia mainland and Vancouver Island will be presented at a meeting here with company officials tonight.

George Gee, business manager of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL-IOE), said today the union will make a "new compromise offer" to B.C. Electric Co. at the meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight.

He declined to divulge terms of the offer, latest development in the dispute involving 600 B.C. Electric Co. workers plus another 500 electricians employed by contractors doing work for B.C.E.

The B.C.E. electricians voted overwhelmingly in favor of strike action following a conciliation board decision to turn down union demands for a 10 per cent hourly wage increase and fringe benefits. Present basic rate is $2.21.

No date had been set for the strike, which would cripple industry on the Lower Mainland and Vancouver Island. The union had stated that if a strike is called, it will maintain essential services to domestic and emergency outlets. Earlier Mr. Gee said that the union would consider setting a strike date if no satisfaction was obtained from tonight's meeting.

The whole glass frontage of the store collapsed as fireworks exploded into the street, and inside the store fruit, vegetables and other articles were burnt to cinders.

At the time of the fire Mr. Buck was in Victoria and his son, Low Sing, was in charge. He said that he did not know what ignited the fireworks and was badly shaken after the experience. A few people in the store at the time of the blaze managed to get out without being harmed.

People watching the blaze had to take cover when rockets zipped out of the store in all directions on Craig Street where the store is situated. Many people had to duck behind cars to avoid being hit.

William Kapell Killed In California Disaster

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Nineteen persons, including the brilliant young American pianist William Kapell, perished today when a British Commonwealth Pacific airliner crashed and burned in fogbound hills 25 miles south of San Francisco near the end of a trans-Pacific flight.

The four-engined DC-6, inbound from Australia and Honolulu, struck a mountain-side two minutes before it was to have landed at San Francisco's international airport.

ALL PERISH
The crew of a helicopter which flew low over the flames-swept wreckage said all aboard perished.

The plane carried 11 passengers and a crew of eight. Six of the passengers were Australians, two were English, one was Canadian and one was believed to be a Swedish sea captain.

First reports said all passengers had boarded the plane in Sydney, Australia. But if Honolulu it was reported that Mrs. Jean Chiverton of Vancouver had boarded the plane en route to her home.

The airline is operated jointly by Australia and New Zealand. A U.S. coast guard helicopter crew said the plane hit at an altitude of 1,700 feet and disintegrated among huge redwood trees.

NOTED PIANIST
Kapell, 31, was returning from his latest Australian tour. Born in New York, Kapell attended the Philadelphia Conservatory of Music and the Juilliard School of Music in New York.

He made concert tours throughout the United States, Australia and South America. (Mr. Kapell played in Victoria in 1947 and 1948.)

An airline official in Honolulu said Kapell almost stayed over in Honolulu but decided at the last minute to continue his journey.

The DC-6, inbound from Australia, was last reported by the airport in a direct approach line over the coast at 8:42 a.m.

One of 19 victims of the air crash near Redwood City, California, was the brilliant pianist, William Kapell, who is well remembered here for the successful concert he played here in 1948.

It should have landed in two minutes, but never arrived. Air and ground search began immediately. Nearly two hours later Hamilton air force base reported its search planes sighted the wreckage on a hill ranch near the Skyline Drive, about 15 air miles south of San Francisco.

The coast guard helicopter then sent its call for aid. Ground parties hurried toward the scene.

Ceiling was 1,200 feet, with scattered clouds. Visibility was about 10 miles.

The pilot had been told to make an instrument approach because of a heavy fog over the hilly coastal area.

The plane, reported to San Francisco International airport at 8:39 a.m. The pilot said he was over Half Moon Bay, only five minutes from the airport.

Almost $47,000 still separated the Greater Victoria Community Chest drive from its $210,686 target figure at noon today.

Barely 75 per cent subscribed, the fund on which 16 welfare groups must depend next year for operating costs totaled $164,000.

Campaign manager, Courtney Haddock, called on district business and industry to finish the job.

"Twenty firms have done well," he said, "We need the support of 100 more."

"Many firms have been generous and have co-operated in permitting employees to donate by payroll deduction. By their enthusiastic response they have inspired a similar desire for success of the drive in the employees," he stated.

"But barely a third of the industrial-commercial quota has been collected. Firms which could have made a sizeable gift have shrugged off canvassers with a pittance."

"Several have refused to handle a payroll deduction scheme."

More than 9,000 entries were submitted as the prize money got higher. Biggest stickler for the unsuccessful ones was the word "seeks," which the composer rules was the best word for "a man with criminal tendencies sometimes — to lead an honest life." He says "seems," which many people used, would be better applied to a man who actually was leading a life of crime. Complete answer to the puzzle is on page 29.
